World Series Title Goes To Thorobreds

An Antioch sponsored amateur baseball team has won the Continental Amateur Baseball Assn. College Div. World Series Title.

The team, called the Lake County Thorobreds, practiced and played its home games at the Antioch High School baseball field. Though players on the team were accepted from anywhere in Lake County, it was sponsored by Flo's Family Hair Care, the First National Bank of Antioch, the State Bank of Antioch, Raymond Chevrolet, Dick Witt-State Farm, Thelen Sand and Gravel, and Proctor's Tax Services.

Playing in a double elimination round robin, the Thorobreds thrashing of the Quebec, Canada team by a score of 17-3, combined with Cincinnati's 7-6 loss to Fresno, Cal., clinched the title for the Antioch-based team. Comprised of college baseball players between the ages of 19-22, five Antioch High School graduates played for the team. They are John Humphries, pitcher, Northwestern University; Craig Prather, infield-outfield, Iowa State University; Vince Gawerecki, pitcher, College of Lake County; John Ruggles, who does not play in college; and Lester Zitkus, outfield, University of Indiana at Evansville.

This was the Thorobreds' first season of play. By mid-season, they did not appear to be going anywhere, posting a record of 6-7. Suddenly they caught fire and could do no wrong, finishing the regular season with a 13-9 record. Although it was only good enough to give them a third place finish, behind LaGrange and Glen Ellyn, in the Metropolitan League, it did get them a playoff berth. From there, the team did not look back, as it eliminated everything in sight until finally, it stood alone as world (or at least North American) champions.

Leading the offense for the Thorobreds was World Series Most Valuable Player, John Humphries, who hit .411 with seven home runs and 33 runs batted in for the season. Other offensive standouts included Geoff Flynn of Grayslake who batted .365 with three home runs and 29 RBI's; Todd Parola, also of Grayslake, who hit .352 with four home runs and 32 RBI's. After a slow start, Prather led the team in on-base percentage (.494) and finished with a .302 batting average.

The team was coached by Wayne Rey and managed by Andy Proctor, both of Antioch.

World Champions

The Lake County Thorobreds, an amateur team of baseball players between the ages of 19-22, won the 1986 World Series Title. ## Receive More Entries For Oldest Newspaper

The Antioch News-Reporter's Oldest Newspaper contest has been extended into September. In honor of its 100th year of publication, the News-Reporter is seeking the oldest available complete copy.

Total entries so far are three, with the entries filed by Mrs. Dortha Chase and Lorraine Blackman last Wednesday, Aug. 23.

A bronze plaque will be awarded to the holder of the oldest copy and $100 will be donated to the Lakes Region Historical Society in the name of the recipient.

At the winner's option, the oldest copy will either be turned over to the historical society or returned to its owner.

Antioch's first newspaper, the Antioch News, began publication in 1886, six years before the village itself was incorporated. The newspaper will celebrate its centennial with a festive luncheon in the fall.

As a reminder, the rules of the Oldest Antioch News Contest are simple: Bring the paper to the News-Reporter office at 952 Main St. for authentication and documentation. Dates and owners will be recorded and kept secret until the contest is over. Officers of the Lakes Region Historical Society will assist with judging and authentication.

Publisher William H. Schroeder noted that the founders and early publishers did not maintain complete records of early editions, so newspaper officials do not know where the oldest copy is and what is the earliest date of publication.

The Antioch News-Reporter is cooperating with the Antioch Twp. Library and the Illinois State Historical Society to microfilm the earliest copies available that can be recorded.

So search those attics and trunks: you may be the holder of the oldest issue of the historic Antioch News.

Man With Stab Wound Has Dinner Before Collapsing

Responding to a call at 1 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 25, Antioch Police discovered Jerry W. Price, 26, of Ingleside in the bathroom of the Vault Restaurant in Antioch with a stab wound.

Antioch Police Lt. Tom Fisher said that Price was in a highly intoxicated state at the time and tried to fight with police officers every time he was awakened.

Witnesses at the restaurant said that Price came in, ordered a meal, and was eating quietly. He got up to go to the washroom. Witnesses heard a loud noise in the washroom and Price did not return, so they called the police.

Investigating officers found no evidence that the stabbing occurred in the washroom. Officials believe he must have already been wounded when he came into the restaurant.

Price is resting in fair condition at St. Therese Hospital. Police, who were unable to question him at the time he was taken in, expect to be able to question him later in the week.

Officers do not know how the stabbing occurred.

High-Speed Accident Critically Injures Man

Kevin D. Arion, 23, of Lake Villa is in critical condition at Victory Memorial Hospital after losing control of his motorcycle and crashing into a cement embankment in Antioch.

According to Lt. Tom Fisher of the Antioch Police Dept., Arion was heading up the hill on Hillside St. near Orchard Ave. at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 24, when he lost control of his motorcycle. He first hit a parked car and then slammed into the cement embankment near Roland's Bakery.

Witnesses said that Arion was driving extremely fast.

The Antioch Police Dept. and the Antioch Rescue Squad responded to the call and found Arion unconscious and badly injured at the scene. He remained in critical condition at press time.

Roast Hess Sept. 12

Lake County Clerk Linda Hess will be hosting an old time, country-style pig roast on Friday, Sept. 12, from 5 p.m. to dusk, at the Heather Ridge Picnic Grove, Gurnee.

This end-of-summer extravaganza marks the second in a series of fund raisers sponsored by the HESS for County Clerk Campaign Committee.

A large array of personalities are expected to attend, including many area voters who support retaining two-party government in Lake County.

Hess states, "With the Nov. 4 election approaching, the question of keeping a check and balance system alive in the Waukegan Courthouse is more prevalent than ever. One-party control is bad wherever it exists and this is one of the major messages my campaign is addressing. As a Gurnee resident living at Heather Ridge, I am pleased to be able to meet area residents at a personal basis and will be available to discuss this and other issues of the campaign."

Tickets may be obtained by contacting Karen Rydberg, chairman of ticket sales, Lindenhurst, at (312) 356-7104. Donations are $15 per person.

Deadlines Nearing

"The deadlines for filing tax levies with the county clerk's office are rapidly approaching," reports Lake County Clerk Linda Hess.

The following taxing districts have filing deadlines during the month of September: road and bridge districts, Sept. 2; townships (both corporate and general assistance funds), Sept. 9; gravel districts, Sept. 9; sanitary districts, Sept. 9; fire protection districts, Sept. 9; mosquito abatement districts, Sept. 9; all cities and villages, Sept. 9; park districts, Sept. 16; and library districts, Sept. 23.

"The secretary of each district is required to file a certified copy of their tax levy with the Tax Extension and Redemption division of the county clerk's office. This office is located on the sixth floor (Room 601) of the county building in Waukegan," Hess continued.

"In addition, those taxing districts that are required to hold public hearings to comply with the Truth in Taxation Act must file a certification signed by the district's chief presiding officer indicating that a public hearing was held," Hess noted.

The Tax Extension and Redemption office can be reached at (312) 360-6657 if the taxing districts have any questions about filing the levies with the county.

Cinderella Gets Her Slipper

Jackie's Hallmark set a little girl's shoe in its window to find the owner, with a sign asking who the little Cinderella was that had lost her shoe during Maxwell Street Days. Coming to reclaim the shoe were, from left: Cheryl Henning, Cinderella's mom; Wally Henning, the dad; little Bonnie Jean 'Cinderella' Henning; Charles Baner, the grandfather who recognized the shoe; Dolores Baner, grandmother; and Jackie and George Olisar, owners of Jackie's Hallmark. After the shoe was found, the Olisar's put a sign in the window notifying passers-by that Prince Charming had reclaimed Cinderella's shoe.

All Parties Ready For Hearing On Hillview

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

The hearing before the Illinois Pollution Control Board to review the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's (IEPA) denial of a permit to receive and inject sludge at Hillview Farms in Richmond is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, Aug. 28 and 29. It will be held at Richmond-Burton High School. Time has been set aside on Aug. 28 from 6 to 10 p.m. to hear comments from the public. Asst. Atty. Gen. Matt Dunn noted that after the regular hearing is finished, probably the afternoon of Aug. 29, additional time will be available for comments from the general public.

As the date approaches for what many believe will settle the issue, the citizens' committee and the attorney general's office are confident that they will prevail and Hillview will have to cease its sludge operations.

Richmond attorney Donald Stinespring, who is the vice-chairman of the citizens' committee and has acted as its legal counsel, said, "We are doing our best to be prepared. We will be impressive."

"There were eight specific reasons for denial by the IEPA as well as general arguments. If the IEPA is right on any one of those reasons, the appeal should be denied. I believe the IEPA was right."

Stinespring added that while the committee has not always been confident of the outcome, they have always known that they were right. He says he is not sure when to expect notification of the pollution control board's decision, but that someone from his committee will ask.

Dunn, who has handled the case for the attorney general's office, expressed his confidence that the IEPA properly reviewed the application.

"I believe the IEPA should be upheld," he said. "McHenry County would have been greatly disserved if the agency (IEPA) had done otherwise."

Dunn noted that this hearing only covers the appeal of the first denial. While the appeal should cause Hillview sludge operations to stop if it is denied, Hillview could ask that operations be allowed to continue while the appeal on the second denial is pending. Though Dunn does not believe that would be allowed, it is up to the pollution control board to make the decision.

Arnold May, the owner of Hillview, commented only that "both sides will be presented and the pollution control board will make the decision."

May added that he will wait until after the board has made its decision to make any further comment, though he said his side is well prepared.

May's operations suffered quite a blow when his biggest customer, Abbott Laboratories, stopped shipping sludge to the farm on Aug. 8. According to Abbott spokesman Charles Weber, the company had a contractual obligation to ship six million gallons of sludge to Hillview annually. Abbott's sludge is now being shipped to other EPA approved sites.

District 34 Approves Budget, Reviews Student Absences

Antioch Grade School Dist. 34 gave tentative approval to its budget for the '86-'87 school year at its regular meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 19. The budget will be on file in the district office for 30 days for public inspection and will receive final approval at the meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 23.

The total amount of the budget was $4,761,131.75 with $3,204,559.75 in the education fund.

The schools will begin the year with an approximate enrollment of 1,525 students.

The board examined two policies recommended by the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. The first clarifies district policy on the per capita charge for out-of-district students. The second is an equal opportunity statement on the distribution of resources equally in all buildings throughout the district. Both policies will be reviewed by the board this month and will come up for final approval at the next regular meeting.

The board examined the student absence report from last year. While the school exceeds the statewide average attendance figures, officials were concerned that junior high school attendance (95.1 percent) was lower than that of elementary attendance (95.9 percent).

"By the time children reach junior high school, most childhood diseases have passed," said Supt. Donald Skidmore. "Of course, we realize that junior high is the level at which truancy problems usually begin, but the board is examining ways of improving attendance."

Students at all schools in the district will find that daily lunch prices have increased to 95 cents from 90 cents last year.

Republican Split May Boost Hess Candidacy

by JOHN STEINKE
Political Columnist

Democratic County Clerk Linda Hess of Gurnee is seeking reelection to a second four-year term in the Nov. 4 election. Currently, Hess is the only Democrat holding countywide office. Her GOP opponent is County Board Dist. 4 Rep. Donna Mae Litwiler of Ingleside. Four years ago, Hess defeated Republican Harry Thomas of Libertyville by 353 votes out of 111,187 votes registered in the contest. Hess succeeded Democrat Grace Mary Stern, who served three terms as county clerk. The Democrats have controlled the county clerk's office for the past 16 years.

Antioch Twp. has been a Republican bastion since the Great Flood. Dist. 4 County Board Rep. and Twp Supervisor, Jim Fields, has been the dominant political figure in the area. Fields will campaign hard for Litwiler's election. In 1988, Fields will be seeking reelection to the county board from Dist. 4, which includes Antioch, Avon, Grant, and Lake Villa Twps. By supporting Litwiler's candidacy, Fields will probably secure the endorsement of the Grant Twp. Republican machine in his reelection bid. There has been a sharp decline in Fields' popularity in Avon and Lake Villa Twps. He will need Grant Twp.'s support to enhance his reelection prospects.

A feud has developed between Antioch Twp. Republican Chairman Chuck

Kempf and Fields. Kempf supported Litwiler's primary opponent, Wauconda Village Clerk Venita L. McConnell. Will the Fields-Kempf differences impair the effectiveness of the Antioch Twp. GOP organization in the fall election?

In addition, Antioch Twp. may be ringing in a new political era. Last year, 28-year-old Mark Ring defeated incumbent Dave Heath for Antioch Twp. Highway Commissioner. Heath had been appointed to the office by Supervisor Jim Fields. Ring's election was further evidence that Fields' political base has eroded in his home township. In all likelihood, Fields will face an election challenge for supervisor in 1989. The Rings are the most closely-knit and politically skilled family in western Lake County. There are more Rings than rabbits in Antioch Twp. The Kennedys are the Rings of national politics. The fragmentation of Antioch politics may benefit Linda Hess' reelection campaign.

Following are Antioch

Twp. election results for the last four county clerk races:
-1970: Dems, 1,119 (36.7%); Reps, 1,928 (63.3%); majority to Reps. by 809 votes.
-1974: Dems, 1,552 (53.9%); Reps, 1,329 (46.1%); majority to Dems by 223 votes.
-1978: Dems, 2,084 (55.4%); Reps, 1,675 (44.6%); majority to Dems by 409 votes.
-1982: Dems, 1,906 (45.0%); Reps, 2,236 (55.0%); majority to Reps by 420 votes.

During the last four county clerk elections, the Democrats have averaged 48.2 percent of the Antioch Twp. vote. Hess captured 45.0 percent of the ballots four years ago. Hess will need the same percentage of Antioch Twp. vote in the Nov. 4 election. She must stress her incumbency and denounce Litwiler's ineffectiveness on the county board. Hess must also emphasize that her reelection is essential to the preservation of the two-party system in Lake County.

Heritage Dance Theatre Drops Final Curtain

The Heritage Dance Theatre, a not-for-profit corporation based in Libertyville, announced at its regular quarterly meeting on Aug. 7 that the board of directors unanimously approved dissolution of the company.

"The Heritage Dance Theatre began in 1982 in an attempt to bring a professional dance company to the far northern suburbs. Area dancers, ranging in age from children to adults, performed for four seasons, in original works.

Heritage brought other professional companies, such as the Chicago City Ballet, to perform before local audiences. Such an endeavor entails a large fixed overhead in theatre rental fees, technician salaries, royalties, costumes, and dancer salaries.

Even with generous donations from community organizations, businesses, and individuals, and countless volunteer hours by interested persons, the company has not been able to become financially self-sustaining," said Wendy Katzenmeier, treasurer and executive committee member.

"In addition, we were unable to secure any of the dates requested for use of the high school auditorium for the 1986-87 season, which would have necessitated seeking new facilities at a time when finances were marginal," noted Katzenmeier.

"The board of directors extends its deepest gratitude to all the volunteers, parents, dancers, students, and supporters who have made the many performances of the past four years outstanding critical successes. We hope interested persons will continue to support dance arts through other area dance companies," said Owen Hanner, dancer and board chairman.

Set Park Sept. Agenda

Every weekend during the month of September, Six Flags Great America will present the park's first annual Country Crafts Jamboree, a fall celebration featuring craft demonstrations, merchandise, special entertainment and foods that make our Indian Summers special.

Beginning Saturday, Sept. 6, Great America will be decked out in the spirit of an old fashioned fall country fairground. The entire park will be decorated with bundles of corn stalks, haystacks, pumpkins and Indian corn.

Hometown Square will be the center of activity for Country Crafts Jamboree, where many artisans and craftpeople will provide a unique selection of their handcrafted art for guests to view and purchase.

There will also be an old fashioned haywagon, complete with scarecrow, displayed in front of the Grand Music Hall, and Hometown Square's shop windows will be specially decorated with the hand-painted Looney Tunes and storybook character pumpkins.

For entertainment, there are loads of fun-filled, foot-stompin' activities. For starters, Robinson's Racing Pigs, swindom's swiftest, will race in pursuit of Oreo cookies six times daily Sept. 6 and 7 and 27 and 28 in Pictorium Plaza.

Square Dancing demonstrations and mixers will be held during the entire festival in the American Eagle Arena, and Buck's Stove and Range Co. and the Hurtin' Buckaroos, popular blue grass bands, will perform at the Orleans Gazebo.

Street entertainers and fiddlers will be seen entertaining guests in all areas of the park. And the Wisconsin State Horseshoe Pitching Champions will demonstrate their winning form every weekend.

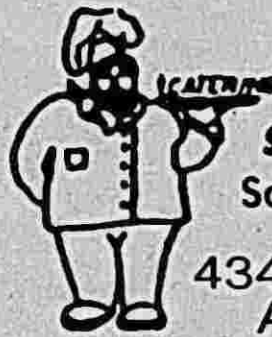

Great America's weekend (Saturdays and Sundays only) operating hours during Country Crafts Jamboree are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

PM&L Will Award Best At Banquet

by GLORIA DAVIS

Members of the PM&L Theater group of Antioch will be feting the dramatic and technical accomplishments of the organization's 25th Anniversary Year when they gather at their annual awards dinner to be held at the Tower Room in Antioch, starting with cocktails at 6 p.m., on Saturday, Sept. 13.

Nominated for outstanding actress in a lead role are Anne Marie Cina ("Fiddler On The Roof"), Jamie Seputis ("The Man Who Came To Dinner"), Donna Badtke ("They're Playing Our Song"), Nancy Thomas ("The Mousetrap"), Jane Miles ("South Pacific"), Linda Ray Williams ("No Sex Please We're British").

Nominated for the outstanding actor in a lead role award are: Ken Smouse ("Fiddler"), Tom Hausman ("Dinner"), Peter Thelen ("Song"), Lou Jones ("Pacific"), and Larry Andres ("No Sex").

Major supporting nominations went to Debbie Beno ("Fiddler"), Rosline Trusky ("Fiddler"), Ricky Apostol ("Dinner"), Dee Baum ("Dinner"), Pat Hill ("Pacific"), Mickey Mandel ("No Sex"), Mark Badtke ("Fiddler"), Larry Bersie ("Fiddler"), Bobby Mulleney ("Fiddler"), Thelen ("Dinner"), Phillip Jaeger ("Mousetrap") and Randy Miles ("Pacific").

Minor supporting award nominations went to Lillian Allen ("Fiddler"), Ricky Apostol ("Fiddler"), Tracy

Kederlein ("Dinner"), Donna O'Donnel ("Dinner"), Aileen Biel ("Mousetrap"), Ingrid Lindberg ("Mousetrap"), Katharine Kramer ("No Sex"), Mulleney ("Dinner"), Bersie ("Dinner"), Gerry Mandel ("Dinner"), Frank Greenwood ("Mousetrap"), Mark Badtke ("Pacific"), Stan Livermore ("Pacific"), Hausman ("No Sex").

Kids that played in "South Pacific" and "Fiddler on The Roof" drew the outstanding youth performer nominations: Julie Sacco, Jane Hausman, Dana Bersie, all from the cast of "Fiddler" and Audra Miles, Scott Badtke and Kerrian Nauseda from "South Pacific."

On the ballot for technical awards are: set design,

Hausman and Tom Hannigan ("Fiddler"), Smouse ("Dinner" and "No Sex"), Mark Badtke ("Song"), Jones ("Mousetrap"), and Hank Apostol ("Pacific"); costume design, Deane Jones ("Fiddler"), cast ("Dinner"), Donna Badtke ("Song"), cast ("Mousetrap"), Donna Badtke ("Pacific"), and Donna Shehorn ("No Sex").

Which will be PM&L's top show? Will director

Hausman and stage manager Elmarie Beno get that award for their work in "Fiddler," or will director Mickey Mandel and stage manager Biel be recognized for "Dinner"?

• Director Jones and stage manager Janet Reynolds make their bid for their work in "Mousetrap" but director Donna Badtke and stage manager Barb Cavage did great work in "Pacific," as did director Smouse and manager Ricky Apostol in "No Sex."

Kirk Tells New Season

The Kirk Players are delighted to bring audiences another four show season! This four show 21st Subscription Series will charm, tickle, thrill and, of course, entertain.

The season begins on Sept. 26 and 27 with the delightful comedy "Alone Together". This charmer opens as Mom and Dad are seeing their last born off to college. The nest is empty and quiet. The two can finally enjoy each others company with complete and utter privacy...but not for long! Why is it that grown children always seem to find their way back "home"? Author Lawrence Roman entreats us to a wonderfully lighthearted view of this modern phenomenon.

The fun continues on into December as the Kirk Players proudly present "The Odd Couple (Female Version)". This fresh, new Neil Simon comedy came to us straight from Broadway.

Like it's male counterpart it is packed with laughs!!! The zany characters are familiar, yet most certainly different! Be there on Dec. 5 and 6 and indulge in levity!

"Ten Little Indians", Agatha Christie's chilling tale of murder and intrigue will be brought to the Kirk stage March 6 and 7. Who could be the murderer? What would be the motive? Who will be next to die? This is a Christie classic.

Competition Offers Prizes

Chicagoland artists residing within a 100 mile radius of the city's loop are invited to enter the 10th annual Alice and Arthur Baer Art Competition and Exhibition to be held this November at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 West 111th St.

The center-sponsored competition offers three top awards to winning artists: a first prize $2,500 recognition, a second $1,500 placement, and a third $1000 prize. Also several honorable mention awards totaling over $600 are given at the discretion of the judge.

Roger Brown, distinguished prolific exhibiting artist whose work appears in sales galleries, museums, universities, corporate and public collections throughout Chicago, across the nation, and in Europe, will be the preliminary and final judge. He has studios in Chicago and New Buffalo, Michigan.

The competition looks for professionally finished framed works in oil, watercolor, print, photography, and other forms of serious art work in fibre and sculpture designed for hanging or free standing exhibition.

All works selected by the judge will be part of the finalists exhibition, a major show open to public viewing during November and December.

Brochure and entry for eligible participants are available now at the center.

All queries should be directed to the center office, open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., at (312) 445-3838.

Announce Regulations For Duck-Hunter Blinds

At the August meeting of the Chain-O-Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency, the following basic guidelines relating to building duck hunting blinds in the waterways under the jurisdiction of the agency were approved by the board of directors and will be implemented this coming duck hunting season. Any questions pertaining to these guidelines can be directed to the Waterway Management Agency office at 703 North Route 12, Fox Lake, Illinois, 60020, phone - (312) 587-8540 or to Director Charles G. Kempf at 25367 W. Richmond Avenue, Antioch, Illinois, 60002, phone - (312) 395-2494; (312) 395-2484 in the p.m. A committee is being established to work with the agency to assist in controlling compliance.

Director Kempf will represent the agency and Chuck Miller, Chief of Police of Antioch along with Roger Szudarski of Fox Lake will represent the hunting interests. The two members representing the boating interests have not been appointed yet. Duck hunting blind sites located in the waterways under the jurisdiction of the Chain-O-Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency. Except those blind sites designated by and under control of the Illinois Dept. of Conservation (IDOC) located within state controlled shooting areas in Grass and Nippersink Lakes.

PURPOSE

material has been removed, the committee shall verify area is cleared before the

The agency is setting forth basic guidelines to help insure compatible usage of the waters of the Chain-O-Lakes Area. It is not the intention to place undue hardships on those interest in the sport of duck hunting. Since the leaving of blind construction materials in the water after hunting season has created safety and navigation problems, the agency, along with input from the hunting interests have established these guidelines.

GUIDELINES:

Prior to building duck hunting blinds in any portion of the waterways under the jurisdiction of the agency:

1. Application will be made in person to the agency by the person or persons wishing to build a duck blind.
2. A security deposit of $100 will be required at the time of application to insure compliance with the established guidelines.
3. The agency will assign a number associated with the established location of the blind sites and place on record the name, addresses and phone numbers of those persons associated with building the blind.
4. A map of the lakes will be maintained at agency headquarters upon which the location of blinds will be marked and identified by number.
5. The agency will issue a card to be placed in the blind listing the names and ad-resses of the owner and will issue a tag with identifying number, which is to be placed on the blind so as to be visible for inspection.

6. No pipe, metal posts, chickenwire etc. will be utilized in support or construction of the duck blind.
7. All materials utilized in construction and camouflage of the blind shall be removed by the blind builders no later than April 30 following the close of the hunting season.
8. Those blind sites that are determined by the agency to be potential navigation hazards during the boating season will display an amber blinking light visible from dusk to dawn from the time of construction until close of the hunting season. After hunting season, reflective tape will be affixed so as to be visible until such time as blind and materials are removed.

CONTROL

A committee shall be formed comprised of one member representing the agency directly, two members representing the duck hunting interest, and two members representing the boating interests.

(A) This committee shall inspect the blind sites to verify location; compliance with construction requirements and to verify removal of material by April 30 and other regulations as set forth.

(B) After being notified by the blind builder that all deposit is refunded.

(C) Any builder not complying with the clean-up requirements will be subject to forfeiture of deposit plus a fine and any additional clean up costs exceeding the $100 and may not be eligible to build a blind in these waters for the following two years.

(D) The committee shall make recommendations to the agency which blinds require amber blinking lights.

(E) It shall be the responsibility of the committee to work with the hunting interest group to help perpetuate duck hunting on the Chain-O-Lakes and to help alleviate problems relating to safety and hazards for a more compatible usage of the waterways of the Chain-O-Lakes Area.

In a letter to the IEPA, Abbott Div. Counsel, Brian J. Smith, gave notice of Abbott's decision, saying, "As a result of...recent developments, Abbott will ship no additional sludge to Hillview Farms until the disposal issue and pending permit appeals are resolved...We have directed Hillview to cease and desist use of experimental procedures to dispose of Abbott sludge and to use the standard injection process to inject all remaining Abbott sludge at the Hillview site in accordance with its permits and all environmental laws, rules and regulations."

The reference to experimental procedures arose from May's use of a pond on the farm to hold sludge for injection on fields that were distant from the umbilical unit from which sludge is piped. May said in an affidavit that he had not intended to use the pond as a holding site, but was just seeing if it could be used as a transfer point.

Meeting On Road Tax Hike Runs Smoothly

According to Antioch Twp. Road Commissioner Mark Ring, the public hearing on the road department's proposed tax increase went smoothly.

About 20 people showed up to question Ring about what the money would go for and what it would mean on their tax bills. Residents found that for most homes, the increase would be about $30 per year.

Easy approval was expected as most of the increase involves a one-time charge for purchasing a new vehicle. Ring said that the vehicle will make it much easier to clear roads of snow when winter come. Residents were satisfied with the explanations given at the meeting.

Designers' Tentacles Cling To Kid's Closets

When I Think About It

by GLORIA DAVIS

School bells have been chiming once again all over the area and local grocery stores are running out of apples (bought for the teacher).

Mom can sit back after the usual frantic two weeks of "back to school" shopping, and plan Dad's favorite dinner (keeping an extra large bottle of aspirins on hand) to coincide with his receipt of the bills for his darlings' entrance into the world of education.

The merchandising moguls have long had their tentacles into the children's clothing market with sales of outfits bearing "Cabbage Patch" vying against those with "He-Man" logos for the lead in the kids' clothing market, not to mention the sweat shirts, etc., from the Strawberry Shortcake, Hug-A-Bunch etc.

Most parents realized that togs carrying these logos were a few dollars more than the same outfits without them.

This year, not only are the logo-bearing clothes greater in abundance, but designers have given the kids their very own styles, much of it modeled after the garb worn by the kids in the "Our Gang" comedies of the 1930s.

In those days oversized caps worn backwards and long shirttails hanging out were considered sloppy and indigenous of "street kids." Today's kids can achieve the same look but with a megabuck price tag.

With peer pressure reaching down into the kids dresser drawers, it's hard to fake some of the styles without buying the real thing.

For instance, kids' regular shirttails are not long enough to hang out from beneath the oversize sweaters, so one is forced to pay premium prices to achieve that most casual look that started last year in GQ (Gentleman's Quarterly, the top male fashion mag).

Somehow, sending a girl child to a primary grade class wearing a glitter-laden net over in her hair and dressed like Madonna goes against the grain.

There was a time when families with more than one child planned on passing clothes down from kid to kid, but with today's fads going and coming as quickly as they are, the kid that gets one of these outfits the third time around will obviously be wearing hand-me-downs, regardless of the condition of the clothes or how well they fit.

And now that dark sunglasses for kids are supposed to complete most outfits, local eye doctors who have preached against wearing non-prescription sun glasses for years, must really be pounding their heads on their office walls.

I priced a couple of outfits for my grandchildren (kindergarten and first grade age) the other day and decided that I would have to remortgage the old family homestead if I wanted to outfit these kids in today's styles.

A sharp pair of grey jeans, a matching shirt (with long tails of course) and an "in" sweatshirt came to $35 at a discount store. That was without the latest in sneakers which run $20 to $30 per pair.

With pastels popular with the young ladies even down to their footwear despite the wintry blasts that are due, most little girls have to have three or four pair of shoes in various colors to match their outfits. Heaven forbid she should wear her pink shoes with her yellow outfit.

When you start adding in the cost of tights or the new leggings in every color, bankruptcy here we come!

I priced a print cotton quilted sweatshirt for my five-year-old granddaughter at $25. Almost the same shirt in my size (you could have made hers out of a sleeve) was $29.

It seems that the size of the patterns is the only thing that is small when it comes to the profits of the manufacturers of clothes for the little people.

With fund cutting going on all over the place, schools are crying that there isn't enough money in the coffers to supply the kind of education parents are screaming for.

I wonder if the average parent shed school clothes spending in half and donated that half to their local school, if more than one class now on the cut list might survive.

ACHS Board Wants Police Patrol Of Parking Lot

The Antioch High School Board of Education has authorized Supt. Gary Allen to request that the Village of Antioch pass an ordinance allowing for police patrol and the enforcement of established parking regulations in the high school's parking lots.

If approved by the village, written citations with a $5 fine will be issued for unauthorized parking in the fire lanes, faculty-staff reserved parking areas, visitor parking area and parking in the lot without a student sticker.

Additionally, a $50 fine will be imposed for unauthorized parking in a handicapped parking area.

The board also approved the employment of Darrick Ellis to teach in the 14-7.03 program at Allendale School For Boys; Gloria Petraitis to be an assistant coach for girls' gymnastics; Karen Chilcote, part-time health teacher and Gwen Varney, to serve as a counselor.

In other business, Principal Art Blecke reported on the recommendations of the parent-teacher discipline committee. The recommended policies were approved by the entire board and a list of them will be included in the September newsletter to be sent out to parents of all Antioch High School students.

In a final move, the board accepted the low bid of Countrystyle, Inc. to supply the milk and ice cream products used by the school for during this school year.

Amann joins this year's list of nearly 2,400 top service technicians cited by GM across the country. To earn the master's designation, technicians have to demonstrate their expertise through a year-long series of qualifiers as well as participate in special training sessions.

Over 4,000 U.S. automotive technicians have achieved Master Technician status since the program's inception in 1983. To be eligible, technicians must be fully certified in the Automotive Service Excellence Program, be in good standing with their division service guild and complete annual training sessions.

Questions Pouring Out About 'Mickey-Mae' Bid

by JOHN STEINKE

To refresh your memory, I'm writing a second column in response to Lake County Sheriff Robert H. "Mickey" Babcox's criticism of me for being a propagandist for his Democratic opponent, Mel Brooks Slagman. Well, Boss, I know that you're going to win reelection to a second term. Then you'll be known as the Richard J. Babcox of the North.

But sheriff, I can't forget that my political roots are in southern Wisconsin. We're political mavericks. We hate machine politics. We don't think a one party system serves the people's interests. I sure know that I don't want to work on no Lake County road gang. Yet you won't shorten my sentence unless I vote for "Mickey-Mae" Litwiler for Lake County Clerk in the Nov. 4 election.

Oh, boss, you're so tough on me. But I promise you that I'll vote for "Mickey-Mae," if you answer the following questions to my satisfaction. First, why did you order "Mickey-Mae" to zip her lip for the duration of the election campaign? Why did she reject Democratic incumbent Linda Hess' invitation to engage in a series of debates? It's traditional for a candidate to challenge the incumbent to debate the issues. Are you afraid that "Mickey-Mae" doesn't possess Linda Hess' effective debating skills? Or, has Hess been such an effective county clerk that she is invulnerable to serious criticism? Finally, have you muzzled "Mickey-Mae" because you are depending upon the straight Republican vote to elect her? Are you fearful that "Mickey-Mae"-Hess debates will encourage many GOP voters to split their tickets for the Democratic incumbent? Now, Mick, there is a secret that I'm going to share with you. Prior to the March 18 primary, "Mickey-Mae" told me that she would have to debate Hess, or "people will think that I'm afraid her."

Second, there are 12 past-and-present public officials, who have forgotten more politics than the rest of us will ever know. "The Brilliant Dozen" include "Mickey" Babcox, Ron Coles, Bob Depke, Norm Geary, Mike Graham, George Kangas, Bill

Morris, "Bingo Bill" Murphy, Bob Moroney, Bob Ratch, Mark Ring and Mary "Graceless" Stern. You're right, "Rob," you're ranked behind "Bingo Bill." Ask Barb why. Sheriff Babcox, your brilliance was reflected during the 1982 sheriff's race. At that time, you announced that you would appoint two police professionals as your principal assistants. They were Clint Grinnell and E.J. (Chick) LaMagdeleine. These appointments guaranteed Babcox's primary victory over GOP incumbent Tom Brown, and his general election win over Democrat Don Mason. Sheriff, your preelection pledge facilitated your election. How come "Mickey-Mae" is unwilling to publicize her major appointments to the county clerk's office?

Third, don't you think that "Mickey-Mae" Litwiler's county board record will cost her votes? Haven't you wired her for sound, sheriff? Two years ago, a prominent GOP county board member confided to me that "Mickey-Mae" shouldn't be elected chairman of the Law and Judicial Committee because of her close political association with the sheriff. For the past six years, Litwiler has been a county board representative from Dist. 4, which includes Antioch, Avon, Grant and Lake Villa Twps. in western Lake County. Republican Norm Geary is the dean of the Dist. 4 Representatives with 22 years of service on the county board. Geary has criticized Litwiler's performance in office. He claims: "Litwiler's county board record is terrible. She has yet to be at a meeting on time. If she is elected Lake County clerk, she will have to hire someone to run the office."

Fourth, are you planning an "October surprise" for us, sheriff? Are you going to order State's Atty. Fred Foreman to initiate charges against Lake County Clerk Linda Hess for incompetency and corruption? Our baby-faced state's attorney is in your hip pocket. Only Fred's political ambitions exceed his blind partisanship. By the way, Mick, does Foreman want to be president of the United States or chief justice of the Supreme Court this month? Will "Partisan Fred" direct unwarranted charges against Democratic County Clerk Linda Hess in order to guarantee "Mickey-Mae's" election? If Foreman orchestrates unfounded charges against Democratic incumbent Linda Hess, I will report upon the authenticity of these potential attacks.

Fifth, won't "Mickey-Mae's" election as county clerk guarantee Sheriff Babcox's control of the election machinery? Libertyville Twp. Supervisor Mike Graham has pointed out the inherent dangers in this situation, observing: "Whether you live in Cook County or Lake County, the majority party should not control the election machinery." Crook County is Democratic while Lake County is Republican.

Well, Mick, I await your response to these questions.

The Lizard Hisses

The Grand Lizard of the Ku Klux Klan (or whatever his silly title is) is demanding that his group of white supremacists be allowed to march in parade on May 2, 1987 in Gurnee. If his group is not allowed a permit, threatens the lizard, the Klan may run a slate of candidates in next spring's village elections.

We say that the Klan should be given a permit to march and we encourage its members to run in the election. It will be instructional for children throughout the area: many of them have heard the term, "white trash," before, but most do not know exactly what it looks like.

These days, the Klan is composed mostly of losers; white folks who don't have much of anything, including the gumption to better themselves or contribute anything of value to society. Since they are the dregs, they feel they have to have someone to feel they are better than. In this country, they choose blacks, Jews, and Hispanics for the most part.

It was not always so, though. There are people on this newspaper who lived in the south in the days when the Ku Klux Klan was a powerful and terrible force. The bloody image of an unshaven white thug beating a little black boy into unconsciousness is not a memory that passes away easily. Neither is that of standing amidst the rubble of a black Baptist church in Birmingham, Ala. where this scum called the Klan murdered so many black men, women, and children with a bomb in the early '60s. And they claimed to do it in the name of Christ.

It is a measure of how far we have come that most people of all races react with disgust and revulsion to the vile philosophy espoused by the Klan. We think, though, that it is a good thing for people to see what a pathetic, revolting spectacle these people are who would bring us back to the days of lynch mobs and burning crosses. For those too young to remember with their hearts the horror of irrational hatred, we believe that they should be taught with their minds just how low people can sink when they give vent to their dark passions.

The power which the Klan wielded just a generation ago is one of our great national shames. But it should never be forgotten, lest it be repeated.

Dealing Effectively

Wauconda High School is making a few changes in its approach to dealing with drug and alcohol abuse among its students. Students caught taking drugs or drinking alcohol will be able to get a lighter penalty by agreeing to participate, with their parents, in a seven-day drug and alcohol program at Parkside Lodge in Mundelein.

At first, it may seem questionable to ease the consequences of substance use among high school students. But Wauconda school officials do not offer infinite patience: leniency is only offered for the first two offenses during a student's high school career. If there is a third offense, students lose many privileges, including the right to participate in athletic and some other extracurricular programs for the balance of their high school career.

School board president, Dan Quick, said that the idea behind the program is to deal more effectively with the problem of substance abuse. The combination of punitive measures with educational and rehabilitational programs should do just that.

The most tragic abusers of drugs and alcohol are not those who are immediately impaired in their day-to-day performance: those people must face the consequences of their abuse early, before they have begun a career. Rather, the most tragic abusers are those who are able to perform well in the early and middle stages of their dependency. The consequences of substance abuse cannot be avoided—only delayed.

For those who are most talented, the consequences may not catch up until they are in or beyond their thirties. When it does finally hit, these people often lose their friends, family, fortune, and even their lives. Surely the litany of dead and injured celebrities who were brilliantly talented (John Belushi, Len Bias, Janis Joplin, Richard Pryor, et. al.) are evidence of this truth.

It is far better that a person should face the consequences of his dependency by losing a football season in high school than by losing his life in mid-career.

We think that Wauconda's program strikes a good balance. It offers students another chance if they attempt to deal with their problem, it gets parents involved in seeking a solution, and it does not offer infinite patience and mercy.

Quick pointed out that the school has never had the situation arise that an athlete was caught abusing drugs or alcohol three times. We believe that this program will help insure that it stays that way.

Taking A Bigger Bite

Once the federal government gives final approval to the income tax reform package, the State of Illinois is going to get a big increase in its tax revenues without having the bother of voting on the issue.

Illinois income tax is figured on the adjusted gross income line on federal tax returns. Since less will be deductible under the reform package, the average person's adjusted gross income will be higher than under the present system. On the federal level, that higher figure will be partially offset by lower rates for most people.

Illinois officials, though, have made no suggestion that they will compensate for the change by lowering rates. The closest any have come is Comptroller Roland Burris, who would cut sales tax while increasing state income tax by a proportionate amount. Taxpayers will not be able to deduct sales tax on federal forms, but will be able to deduct state income tax, so this would offer some relief.

It will not change the fact, however, that the state is going to receive a windfall which will be paid for by its citizens. To figure out approximately how much more you will pay, take last year's forms and figure out how much your adjusted gross income would be without the deductions that will be abolished with reform. Then find your tax on the Illinois tables and compare to what you paid last year.

We thought you should know.

All The Time— Ill. Comptroller Is Mr. Smooth

by BILL SCHROEDER

MR. SMOOTH—If there's another politician better on the stump or more at home in front of a crowd than Illinois Comptroller Roland Burris, this observer is unaware of that person.

Burris, running for his third term as the No. 1 watchdog of state spending, is a picture of confidence as he chats about the duties of his office, offers his viewpoints on the problems of society and comments on his responsibilities as a role model for American youth.

Matter of factly, Burris tells about the busy speaking schedule for youth groups he maintains. "Kids relate to me. They hear what I say," remarked Burris, without a trace of false modesty. The comptroller enjoys telling high school students about the rewards of setting goals, working hard and adhering to principal. "If I can do it, anybody can," exclaims Burris. What he has done is plenty. Roland is the first black to be elected to state office in Illinois. He also is a high ranking official of the National Democratic party. All this—and more—makes him one of the most respected and well-liked leaders in the black community today.

Besides being highly knowledgeable politically and a likable guy, Roland Burris strikes me as being the type of person who's an expert conversationalist, an attribute that's almost an extinct quality. Burris is "old shoe" not "soft shoe." I like that.

FOR KIDS ONLY—For the anti-gun lobby, an outing coming up at Chain O'Lakes State Park, north of Fox Lake, probably will give a lot of people acute indigestion. That's the annual Youth Pheasant Hunt Sunday, Nov. 9, when youngsters will take to the fields with their shotguns to try and bag a bird.

The hunt is sponsored by the Illinois Dept. of Conservation. Applications must be made in advance beginning Sept. 1 to get in on the fun. Applicants must be between the ages of 10 and 15. They must have passed the DOC's Hunter Safety Course. An adult will accompany all young hunters.

Tramping over the countryside with a kid carrying a loaded shotgun is not my idea of a fun afternoon, but then I'm not into guns. Maybe the hunting enthusiasts think anyone hollering his head off at a high school football or basketball game is nuts. I was a bit surprised to see DOC conducting such outings. I guess the idea is to start 'em young.

*****

BIG SHOW—For the second year, the All-Midwest Hunting and Outdoor Show will return to the Lake County Fairgrounds Sept. 5-7. Aimed at hunting interests, it offers supporting in and outdoor demonstrations and seminars as part of admission.

The show opens at 10 a.m. daily. Admissions are $5 for adults $2.50 for children 6-12 and free for those 5 and under.

*****

IMPACT—There is no doubt that intensive enforcement of new Illinois drunk driving laws (DUI) has reduced the number of intoxicated drivers on the highway. It also has cut deeply into the local bar business, according to one lounge operator who asked that his name not be used.

Business has been cut in half, the liquor dealer declared. He attributed it to the fact that Lakeland residents are staying out of taverns for fear of getting ticketed for DUI.

This is one case where the law is doing exactly what intended.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Jill and Ralph are on their wedding trip, and mom and pop survived all the hustle and bustle of the wedding. Only they aren't able to work in a vacation. The days leading up to the wedding were not without excitement, the most notable incident being Jill's involvement with an escaped ferret. The puzzled animal, hiding in the garage, sunk its teeth into the prospective bride's foot, producing a rabies scare. Tests proved negative, though, so arrangements went on, but hardly at a normal pace.

Letter To The Editor:

Opposes Jet Growth

Editor:

Goodbye Lakeland! Hello O'Hare!
Well, it just had to happen didn't it? The City of Waukegan decided that to attract new industry to its failing economy it had to build a bigger airport on the false belief that if you have a great big airport you will just have all sorts of new plants coming into your town!

Now, all of Lakeland will have to pay the price in terms of eye, ear, nose and throat pollution.

I happen to live in Gurnee and guess what I now enjoy? The roar of jets over my house spilling not only noise pollution but raw jet fuel as these answers to attracting new industry take off and land.

Next time you are around O'Hare, take a look at that brown or black junk coming out of each engine as the planes roar out of sight. That is raw jet fuel, fuel that is dumped into the air we breathe because airplanes cannot take off economically—they have to take off with carburetors set at "full rich" so that they have the "safety factor" on take off and landings. That raw jet fuel is dumped into the air you breathe.

How about your ears? The level of jet noise is more than that of rock concerts and actually approaches that of pure pain!

You have heard about the mayor's fighting about O'Hare, that's what it's all about—noise and air pollution.

And who will pay the price? The air traffic will be taking off and landing and polluting the residents of Zion, Winthrop Harbor, Wadsworth, Gurnee, Libertyville and Green Oaks. Secondary pollution will be the remainder of Lakeland.

Of course commercial property values do increase around an airport, however, housing values will depreciate.

Remember all the fuss of the school kids trying to study around O'Hare? Do you think it will be any easier around Lakeland schools with jets buzzing in and out disrupting classes?

Unlike the residents around O'Hare you do have a choice right now. You can write to your U.S. Senators Alan Dixon and Paul Simon telling them that you don't want them to approve $1.9 million dollars of federal money for Waukegan's new control tower.

You don't stick your nose around the exhaust of your car and breathe deeply. Why do you want more pollution and smog in your eyes, ears and lungs with more jet traffic?

Your wonderful Congressman John Porter who represents you and lives in nearby Winnetka far away from the roar of jets, is responsible for bringing this pollution to Lakeland. Remember him at the polls!

Write both your senators in Washington today!

Juvenile Fires: New Answers To Old Problems

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

It is a problem that is as old as the discovery of fire, but only in the last five or six years have people begun to find effective ways to deal with it. It is the problem of children who set fires.

According to statistics reported by the FBI, juveniles between the ages of 13 and 19 account for 43 percent of all individuals arrested for arson offenses.

On two consecutive grow out of, though. That won't solve the problem. All too often, kids get a slap on the wrist or a scolding and that is the end of it. They need to be taught what fire is about. If that is done effectively and the child has no other problems, the firesetting should end.

Adults have a tendency to send children mixed messages about fire, Mieszala noted. On the one hand, children see us using accident or it is related to another problem," she said, "but we almost never see a curiosity-accident sort of fire in rural areas."

That evidence certainly indicates it would be wise for those of us who live in urban areas to make a special effort to set up situations where we can train our children in the proper and improper use of fire.

"On the other end of the spectrum, every community challenge is to identify and treat those children who set fires as a cry for help. They usually have another problem that, if dealt with, will end the problem of firesetting."

Mieszala emphasized that, up to this point, the response of the community has usually been to dump the problem in the fire department's lap. She said, though, that if the problem is to be solved, the entire community must get involved.

"Thankfully, because of programs such as this, communities are beginning to develop comprehensive projects to deal effectively with the problem," she said. "In the long run, the fire departments, the schools, the medical community, the police, every area of the community must get involved. We can help most children who have the problem, but not by dumping it in one agency's lap."

Mieszala urged parents not to be ashamed or afraid to seek help if a child has a problem, noting that it is far more prevalent than most people know. She added that most local fire departments are setting up programs to deal with the problem.

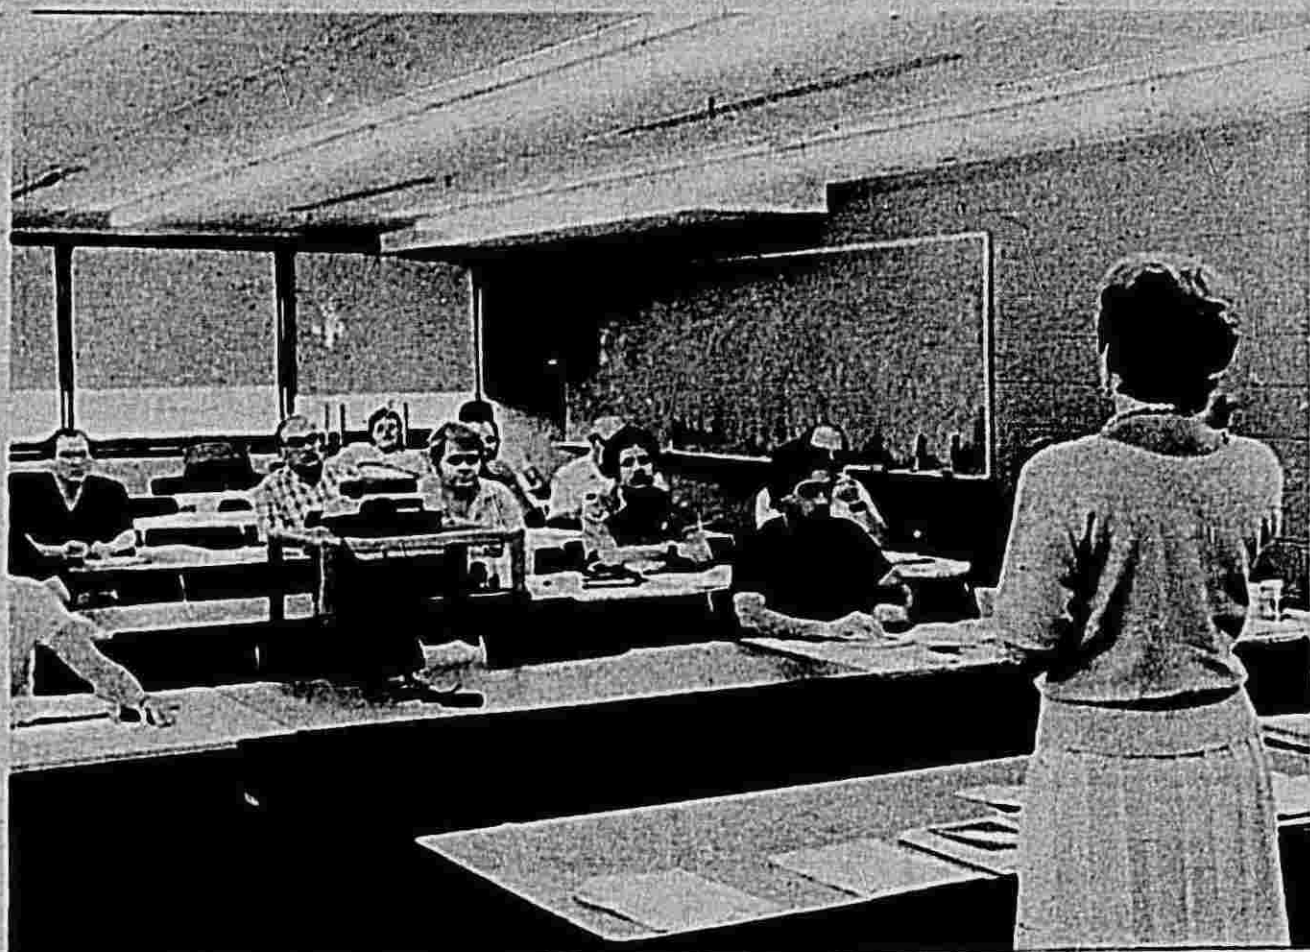

"Don't be afraid to call your fire department if you have a problem," she said, "but remember to have patience. Most of these programs are new and it will take a while to get them going full steam."

Jim Byrne; Deerfield, firefighter Chuck Glee.

Also Waukegan, firefighter John Sherwood; Round Lake, Chief Paul Mapletorpe, Dep. Chief Rocco Pelletiere, Inspector Gary Adler; Hoffman Estates, firefighter Al Pedersen; Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Inspector Rich Cole; Lake Forest, firefighter Mike Beatty and firefighter Terry Cox; North Chicago, firefighter Keith Humphries; and Zion, Lt. Ron Levin and firefighter Duane Peacy.

Attending from other agencies were: Gurnee Police Dept.; Investigator Terry Mos and officer Terry Hardman; Allendale-Bradley Counseling Center, director Dr. George Lutz, Dan Foster, Ed Stith, Pat Taglione, and Mary Stucco.

Fighting Fire With Education

Firefighters from throughout the Lake County area spent two weekends attending a seminar conducted by nationally recognized juvenile firesetter expert, Patricia Mieszala. Held at the College of Lake County, the seminar is expected to help fire departments set up programs in their own communities to help solve the problem of children who start fires. FBI statistics show that almost half of all arson fires are started by juveniles.

Saturdays, Aug. 16 and 23, firefighters from 13 communities throughout Lake County gathered at the College of Lake County to participate in a seminar to help develop programs in their own communities to combat the problem of juvenile firesetters.

The seminar was run by Patricia Mieszala, R.N., director and president of BurnConcerns, a consultant company that deals with issues relating to fire. Mieszala has 18 years of experience and has received national recognition in the areas of psychiatry, burn care, rehabilitation, and prevention. She has received several distinguished national awards, particularly for her work in the National Juvenile Firesetter project.

According to Mieszala, there are three categories of juvenile firesetters: the young child who, out of curiosity, accidentally starts a fire; the child who sets a fire because of other problems; and the pathological child who sets a fire with malice and intent to destroy. The first child needs discipline and education and is of minor concern; the third child is of extreme concern; but it is the one in the middle, who is only of moderate concern, that has missed being identified and treated in most communities.

"Children may begin starting fires as early as at 18 months," Mieszala said, "but in most cases it is an accident. Parents should not just forget about it or figure that it is a phase they will fire for all sorts of good and useful purposes. On the other, whenever they try to use it, we scold them. Just because they get their hands slapped every time they touch the matches does not mean they will lose their curiosity about fire. They will simply wait until the adults are not around and then get the matches. That, of course, is the very type of dangerous situation most of us want to avoid.

The best way to teach children the proper respect for the awesome power of fire, Mieszala said, is to start explaining what it can do and what it is useful for at a very young age. When children reach the age of about three, parents should teach them how to use matches and lighters properly, explaining that they should never use them without their parents present.

Sitting at lunch, I noted that when my parents moved to a rural farm, the three children who moved with them never seemed to get in the scrapes with fire that the three of us who were older had when we lived in an urban setting, even though the kids on the farm used fire much more frequently: the family's only source of heat is a fireplace and wood-burning stove.

Mieszala said that was absolutely correct and as it should be expected.

In a rural setting, children must be taught early how to use fire in order to complete their chores. Any time a fire started by a rural child gets out of control, it is either an obvious seems to have a few whacko families and the fire departments usually know where they are," Mieszala said. "Treating the children from these families is a problem, but identifying them is not. The biggest

As the Labor Day weekend nears this year, more than the end of summer will be signified. On Sept. 1 the end of the drinking privileges for those under 21, residents and otherwise, will take place all over the State of Wisconsin.

Though the age of 21 will then be the legal drinking age, really a solid 19 will fill the bill.

There will be little noticeable immediate change in the drinking scene except that the new 19 year olds will not be able to drink legally.

Because of the grandfathers' clause in the approved 21-year-old drinking bill, there will be 19 (for one year) and 20 year olds drinking in Wisconsin's bars until 1988.

If it was a clean and easy switch to 21, with those under that age denied drinking privileges, the situation would be an easy one with all of Wisconsin's bars just denying service to anyone born after September of 1965.

But the Wisconsin Legislature, in its efforts at fairness and not wanting to take the privilege away from those who already had legally attained it, ruled that anyone who was or will be 19 (the previous legal drinking age) before Sept. 1 will keep their drinking privileges.

This decision has made the policing of the new law an extremely difficult one, at least until September of 1988, since bars will have to keep tabs on which 19 year olds can drink (as per their birth date) and which cannot, next year it will be which 20 year olds, etc.

The college world might have to set blanket non-drinking laws if this fractured policing proves to be too difficult.

It was the drinking problems created by teens crossing borders from neighboring states that already had the 21-year-old law that was most instrumental in Wisconsin raising its age.

With the age raise, Wisconsin also qualifies for the road funds offered by the federal government to states that have the 21-year-old drinking age.

Crack Explosion Rocks Drug World

A new form of cocaine known as "crack" may be the most addictive drug in the nation today and because it's relatively cheap and readily available, it's spreading across the country like summer wildfires. Some experts are labeling its use epidemic.

"We've seen a virtual explosion of crack use in this within the last six to nine months," says John McKearn. "A year ago we'd never heard of it, today it's headline news."

McKearn is administrator of Abaris Treatment Center, an alcoholism and chemical dependency center in Beloit, Wisc.

Crack, or rock as it's sometimes known, is a processed form of cocaine, converted from sniffable powder to smokable chunk via baking soda and household bleach. It's then sold on the street in vials for about $10.

Crack is an extremely pure form of cocaine, reaching the smoker's brain within 10 seconds. For five to 20 minutes, the user will experience a tremendously euphoric high, then he'll come crashing down into an often debilitating depression.

"The problem with crack is the high is so short-lived that the person must use repeatedly to maintain the euphoria. But because crack contains a megadose of the addictive qualities of cocaine, this constant using can produce a powerful dependence within a very short time," explains McKearn.

Crack use began within the ghettos of a few major cities as recently as two years ago and rapidly spreading across the country. Crack houses, where the drug is manufactured, sold and often consumed, are popping up in suburbia like fast-food franchises. National news magazines are featuring crack on their covers and attendees at national drug conferences can't get enough information about this potentially lethal drug.

Plus, because it involves illegal drugs and megabucks, it's surrounded by crime and violence. Police in some cities are labeling crack their number one drug problem.

But it's primarily those who become addicted to the drug that concern McKearn, and their numbers are swelling. According to a national cocaine hotline spokesperson, as recently as last fall the hotline received virtually no calls regarding crack. However, the latest report indicates about 33 percent of all users who call are talking about crack.

"Sometimes we get so caught up in how a drug is obtained and whether it's legal or illegal, that we forget about the disease aspect," McKearn says. "Not everyone who uses will become addicted, but for those who are unfortunate enough to have this disease, the stigma attached to it makes getting help very difficult."

The National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA) puts the number of cocaine users at 4.2 million with as many as 5000 people each day trying cocaine for the first time. By very conservative estimates at least 10 percent of those who use it will become addicted.

"The most important thing to remember is that addiction is a disease. Those who continue to use despite the apparent ill effects and problems it causes them are sick, not bad. First of all they need treatment for their disease," states McKearn.

"We're not condoning use of illegal drugs," McKearn points out. "We're saying that when someone recovers from the disease of addiction, they'll stop using drugs — legal or illegal."

Hospital To Provide Free Guest Program

Saint Therese Medical Center representatives have announced a free "guest" night program for outpatient surgical patients. In response to the concerns of the in-tire Saint Therese family, including members of the medical staff, starting Sept. 1 patients who are scheduled for same day surgery will be able to come into the medical center the night before as a guest of the medical center, if they so wish.

This program is in response to a demonstrated need on the part of many patients, especially the elderly and frail. Third party payors and businesses have stopped paying for the night before surgery in an effort to cut health care costs and for some patients this is appropriate.

However, there are other patients and their families who find this very stressful, inconvenient, and actually a detriment to the delivery of quality care. It puts an additional burden on the physicians and the hospital employees to accomplish all the necessary preparations in the early morning hours, sometimes necessitating the patient coming into the medical center at 5:30 a.m. Often, family members have to miss work to accommodate to these procedures as well.

By allowing the patients to come in the afternoon or evening before, their workup can be done in a much less stressful manner, they can get a good night's sleep before surgery, and their physicians will have adequate time to prepare them for the surgical procedures or to cancel the surgery if the patients tests dictate temporary cancellation.

According to Nora C. O'Malley, president, Saint Therese Medical Center, has decided to offer this option in their efforts to provide quality care to all their patients and to provide a supportive environment for delivering quality care to their physicians and their employees.

Because Saint Therese does not want to discriminate between those patients who have insurance and those who do not, this program will be open to all outpatient surgical patients including children.

For more information please contact same day surgery at (312)360-2128.

Two Million Pets Are Stolen Annually

by CHARLENE WHITNEY

It may be hard to believe, but every year there are about two million dogs stolen. They range from pure breeds to mutts—it makes no difference. Cats are stolen as well.

You might ask why anyone would do such a thing, and like so many other things, it is for money. People who own pets are unaware of these thieves and their pets become easy targets.

The stolen pets are sold to research labs. A price of $200 or more is given for each dog and $30 or more for every cat. In one town, thirteen owners managed to recover their stolen pets by going to a prestigious institute.

If your pet is stolen, you should flood the area with posters describing the pet very well. With all this publicity, the animal will be too "hot" to sell.

Some stolen dogs are not only used for fight competitions, but as sparring partners for the champion fighters.

Pet-Wise

Also, jackets, linings, hats and even fun fur can be made from the skins of stolen pets.

Right now, the Labrador and the German shepherd are the big targets, but all types of dogs are in danger from thieves.

One dog was found nailed to a tree as part of a cult ritual, and there have been several similar instances.

You can protect your pet by taking these steps:

-When you leave your home, make sure your pet is locked inside. It's not wise to leave your pet outside, but if you must, make sure he is out of sight in an enclosed backyard.

-Don't leave your pet alone in a car. He should not be tied to a post or parking meter while you take a minute to run in the store.

-Organize a "pet-owners neighborhood watch." Then watch out for one another's pets and for any suspicious activity.

It is a very good idea to have your pet tattooed with an identification number. Be sure to have it registered with a pet registry as proof that you are the owner. Your vet can fill you in.

Beware and take care of your pets.

Crane To Sponsor Business Seminar

Twelfth District Congressman Philip M. Crane is sponsoring a "Business Development Conference" for the 12th District on Thursday, Sept. 4, at the Arlington Park Hilton.

The conference will present businesses in the 12th District with a unique opportunity to gain insight into three crucial business concerns: international exporting, doing business with the government, and strategic business planning.

This special one-day conference will provide detailed procurement information and instruction on how businesses may increase the chances of selling their products or services to the government. Many business organizations in the 12th District, especially smaller firms, miss out on sales opportunities with the Federal and State government because they lack prime and subcontract information.

To assist in strategic planning and forecasting, a panel of experts will offer valuable information on economic trends.

Companies with little or no export experience will be offered the opportunity to learn first hand how to expand profits by turning to exports.

For further information call (312) 394-0790 or (815) 459-3399.

Temporary Employees: Solution

With modest economic growth predicted for the balance of 1986, employers are increasingly using temporary help services to allow them to manage their businesses more competitively.

"Every day we hear more from employers who are using temporary workers as part of their overall business plan," said Tony Zahn, Kelly Services' vice president and regional manager for the area.

"Employers who think smart see strategic advantages to using temporary workers," Zahn said. "Whether planning for controlled expansion or special projects, temporary workers provide businesses with a margin of safety against unforeseen economic conditions."

According to "USA Today" nine out of ten U.S.

businesses employ temporary workers. Temporary employees today work in areas ranging from clerical and personal computer to data entry, light industrial, technical and marketing support.

Kelly Services, Inc., the Detroit-based supplier of temporary help, is the leading temporary services firm in the U.S.

Wildwood Resident Heads New Division

Gregg Walter, a resident of Wildwood, has been named manager and title officer of Fort Dearborn Land Title Company, a newly formed subsidiary of Koenig and Strey, Inc., Realtors.

Walter, who holds a bachelor of arts degree in speech-communication from Eastern Illinois University, Charleston, has nine years of title business experience in Chicago's northern metro area, most recently at Intercounty Title Company's Libertyville facility.

He is a ruling elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Waukegan, where he has chaired several committees, and is a past secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Illinois University Alumni Assn.

According to Walter, Fort Dearborn has been selected as exclusive agent for Safeco Title Company, one of the nation's leading underwriters with over $100 in combined assets.

"The capability of handling title search business in-house broadens the spectrum of real estate services available through Koenig & Strey," Walter noted. "We have positioned Fort Dearborn Land Title Company as a service-oriented company specializing in residential real estate properties located in Lake, Cook, DuPage, Kane and McHenry Counties," Walter continued, "and we are prepared to offer a high level of personalized assistance to our clients."

Woodland Meadows To Open New Phase

"Since we sold all 25 of our homesites in our current phase at Woodland Meadows in less than three weeks, we'll be opening the next phase of 47 homesites ahead of schedule in early fall," said James Coughlin, director of sales and marketing for Residential Development Group, Inc.

Woodland Meadows in Grayslake is a community of 360 single family homes. Eight homestyles are available, priced from $88,900 to $119,900. A variety of two-story plans are available for buyer selection.

"If you offer a well built home at a competitive price, there's no magic to why your homes sell," said Coughlin. "With lower interest rates, we are seeing a lot of families upgrading to a larger residential home within the same community. Many of our buyers are second or third time residential homeowners."

Coughlin said that residential's reputation for stick-built construction is often cited by buyers as influencing the purchase decision. "One of the concerns of buyers looking for a home is that new construction homes should be solidly built and should contain prefabricated construction," said Coughlin. "When people say, 'They don't make homes like they used to,' it's often true. We still retain stick-built construction, but new technologies and superior insulation make these homes more comfortable and less costly to maintain than homes built even five to 10 years ago."

Changes in floor plans and room counts have reflected changes in the family lifestyle. "The typical home years ago had one bath and small, box-like rooms with walls to define spaces," said Coughlin. "Today's families use more appliances in the bathroom, therefore, creating a need for more than one bath to service all family members' needs. In addition, we've removed a lot of those interior walls to provide more open, flexible living space. Kitchens are part of open kitchen, breakfast area and family room combinations, and formal living and dining rooms still provide the setting for supper parties or business entertaining, but without boxing in the areas to restrict their function. Woodland Meadows homes are more liveable today and really showcase our construction and design expertise."

The Woodland Meadows community is a half mile north of Rte. 120 (Belvidere Rd.) off Hunt Club Rd.

Offices Closed

All secretary of state offices and facilities will be closed for Labor Day, Secretary of State Jim Edgar has announced. I wonder how Mommy got so smart about babies.

Whether a woman has experienced childbirth or is due to be a first-time mother, Rock-A-Bye Club offers many exciting opportunities to prepare for the new baby. Northern Illinois Medical Center's year-round, free prenatal series covering all three trimesters of pregnancy is designed for mothers and fathers, includes a special night for grandparents, and features a Sunday afternoon session for the new comer's siblings. The Early Bird Classes for the first three months are especially important to first time mothers. The second trimester is covered by the Round Two Classes, and the third trimester is called the Home Stretch. For those women anticipating a cesarean delivery, there is a special class offered for both parents.

NIMC offers the on-going prenatal series so that an expectant mother may enter the classes at the time she feels is right for her. It is suggested that the parents-to-be attend the full series for complete prenatal instruction.

The classes offer ample opportunity for parents to ask questions about the physical and emotional changes that occur during pregnancy, as well as the adjustments that must be made as a couple and with other children. Truly family-centered, the education series is an excellent resource for parents. For information on Rock-A-Bye Club, the free classes and NIMC's entire maternity service, call 815/344-5000, and ask for the Rock-A-Bye Coordinator. NIMC knows all about your great expectations.

Beware Of Billing Abuses By Utilities, Banks, Etc.

American consumers are finding it increasingly difficult to decipher overcharges on utility bills, bank statements and credit card bills.

A recent Gallup Poll reported that 28 percent of the people surveyed did not know how to read and understand their telephone bills.

The problems have been compounded by the divestiture of AT&T and deregulation of many telephone services by the federal government. Consumer advocates told The Meyers Report about the following recent billing problems with energy utilities, credit cards and bank statements:

TELEPHONE COMPANIES - AT&T and other telephone companies have been found charging customers rental fees for telephone equipment which has been purchased or returned.

Several long distance companies have been signing up residential and small business customers for long distance calling service without obtaining the customer's authorization.

Telephone companies often charge customers for local and long distance calls that are dialed but not completed. Some companies start charging you after five or six rings, even if no one answers the phone.

One way to spot this billing abuse is to look for one-minute telephone calls on your bill. One customer of Pacific Bell found more than 100 one-minute calls on his bill. Experts say this practice will diminish as all long distance companies get "equal access" to long distance lines.

Poor quality long distance service is commonplace. If you experience trouble hearing the other party, or are suddenly disconnected, contact the long distance company immediately, or make a note of the date and time of the call, when your bill comes, do not pay for the call.

ENERGY UTILITIES - On gas and electric bills, be particularly wary of "estimated meter readings" in which the company simply guesses about usage in prior months to determine your current bill. This can be a major form of billing abuse.

Faulty meter reading is another problem. One customer of Brooklyn Union Gas was billed $33 because of an estimated meter reading on an apartment which happened to be vacant during that month.

Watch carefully for other types of creative billing. A customer of Commonwealth Edison in Chicago complained that the company you know it is virtually impossible to follow the fine print which explains how the company determined the finance charges.

Different banks use different methods of calculating interest fees. It's possible that under the same interest rate your finance charges could vary by as much as 100 percent, depending upon how the "average daily balance subject to finance charge" is determined.

The Meyers Report urges consumers to be especially alert for the following kinds sometimes under-reads meters in the month prior to rate increases. It is not uncommon for bills to jump 25 percent when the utility billed customers for the full usage at the new, higher kilowatt hour rates.

Always demand that your utility company explain every charge on your bill. Many states provide specific procedures for disputing a utility bill. Follow these to prevent the company from terminating your service.

Watch out for late payment charges or interest fees on erroneous charges. If the problem appears to be widespread, contact state utility officials and your state legislators about the matter.

CREDIT CARDS AND BANK STATEMENTS - The Truth in Lending Act requires financial institutions to disclose interest, finance and other charges, and to set forth how they are calculated.

However, if you have ever studied your credit card bill, of billing mistake:

OVERCHARGES AND PHONY CHARGES - Some unscrupulous merchants will bill your credit card for products or services you never requested or received.

Mistaken debits on bank statements are occurring more frequently with increased use of automatic teller machines and the host of special charges related to minimum balances and bounced checks.

INTEREST FEES ON MISTAKES - Sometimes correcting an overcharge or phony charge is only the beginning—some companies neglect to correct the interest fees and other charges attached to the billing mistake.

SERVICE AND HANDLING CHARGES - A number of credit card companies effectively charge higher interest than they state by requiring monthly or annual fees, even if the consumer is no longer using the card.

Something New On The Way For Football Fans

Something new for local high school football fans will be presented in the Thursday, Sept. 4, issue of this newspaper.

The 1986 All Lakeland High School Football Team, a pre-season selection, will be presented in conjunction with the annual Lakeland Newspaper's Prep Football Preview.

Who will be the top prep running back in the Lakeland area? Who will be the outstanding interior linemen

These and many other questions will be answered Sept. 4, in the football review, one of the most popular special sections of the year produced by the Lakeland Newspaper group.

Details of the pre-season picks are being worked out by Mike Pramshafer, asst.

managing editor, and Steve Peterson, sports copy editor.

Lakeland writers will be interviewing coaches, officials and others close to the prep scene to come up with a consensus squad of who will be prep stars of the coming season.

"Pre-season selections are customary and popular in other parts of the country, but as far as we know no other football all-star team ever has been picked in this locality before the season started until now," observed publisher William H. Schroeder.

The annual prep preview includes photos, rosters, schedules and interviews of all high schools served by Lakeland Newspapers.

Sequoits Eager During Rebuilding Process

"What we lack in experience we are making up in eagerness," said Antioch High School Football Coach Steve Wapon, a week after practice began.

Last year the Antioch Sequoit gridders finished the season in second place in the North Suburban Conference and in the top eight teams in the state.

But transfers and graduation have left the Sequoits with a new and inexperienced team coming into the 1986 season which starts with the Sequoits pitted against last year's conference champs, the unbeaten Libertyville Wildcats, on Saturday, Sept. 6, at Libertyville.

The positions of all-star and all-state players like Bob Johnson, Matt Humphreys, Tom Holman, Jamie Zophel, Pat Bruks and Rob Visay are all open this year, as is the quarterback spot since Mike DoBosh moved away.

The Sequoits lost nine of 11 offensive players and eight of the 11 offensive men.

Coach Steve Wapon said that a first cut has left just over 50 players on the varsity with three of them vying to fill DoBosh's football shoes: senior Wade Kilman, 6-3, 165 pounds; junior Chris Polark, 6-1, 164 pounds and junior David Wick, 6-1, 188 pounds (came to varsity as sophomore).

So far Wapon is depending on returnees, Brian Pankauskas, senior, 5-11, tight end; Steve Pappadakis, senior, 5-9, 240 pound guard; Jim Smith, senior, 6-2, 186 pound def. tackle; Dale Gade, senior, 5-11, 174 pound def. guard; Bob Cord, senior, 5-10, 148 pound linebacker (switching from def. end.)

Marathon Deadline Is Sept. 1

The entry deadline for America's Marathon in Chicago is Sept. 1. Open to all runners 18 years or older, the Sunday, Oct. 28 race is expected to draw as many as 12,000 participants, including as many as 50 of the world's top distance runners. Entry fee is $10, with a special $5 fee for persons 60 and over. Each runner will receive a t-shirt. Entry forms can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to America's Marathon, 214 W. Erie, Chicago, 60610, or by calling the marathon office at (312) 951-0660. Entry fees must be accompanied by a completed entry form postmarked no later than Sept. 1. Late registration, with an increased entry fee, will open Sept. 3.

Rams Prepare For Opener

Grayslake football coach Harold Jahnke is busily preparing some 30 players for the season opener.

Jahnke, the school's athletic director, started his duties as football coach earlier this month.

The Rams will be striving for respectability after falling to 1-8 last year.

The season starts with an away game against St. Catherine's of Racine, WI Sept. 6.

'Breaks,' Work Could Give Mustangs Edge

Mundelein High School football coach Gary Hefner is looking at his team's progress very positively as the season begins to move into high gear.

Pleased with the overall turnout of about 41 students for practice, Hefner said the Mustangs will have 16 returning lettermen and about eight athletes in starting positions.

The Mustangs will play

Pinka To Teach Ballet At Chandlers Fitness

Chandlers Family Fitness Center announces that Bobbi Pinka will be teaching ballet classes at the fitness center on an exclusive basis.

For the past eight years she has been the ballet instructor for THE JACK BENNY CENTER FOR THE ARTS in Waukegan and has recently decided to devote all her talents to teaching in the Lindenhurst/Lake Villa area. She will be offering classes exclusively at Chandlers on Mondays and Saturdays beginning Monday, Sept. 8.

Pinka has studied classical ballet for over 25 years and received the majority of her training with John Petri, a premier danseur with The Ballet Russe for 19 years.

Despite the fact that her background is from a very strict Russian school of dance, her philosophy in teaching is not only to educate her students in the art of dance but to also make their dance experience an enjoyable one.

She feels that every student can do well in at least one aspect of dance and will try to help them to achieve this through encouragement, by instilling self-confidence and giving each student the individual attention they deserve.

Professional dancers have been in her family for generations dating all the way back to the first Odette in the first production of Swan Lake in Russia.

Programs To Receive Funds

Sec. of State and State Librarian Jim Edgar has announced that two Lake County literacy programs will receive funds from his office totaling more than $67,000 through a special literacy grant program created last year. The money will fund volunteer tutoring programs and other literacy services coordinated by the College of Lake County and the Waukegan Public Library.

"An estimated two million adults in Illinois live with the handicap of functional illiteracy," said Edgar, who chairs the Illinois Literacy Council. "Having failed to reap the rewards of formal education as children, these individuals are reluctant to return to the classroom setting as adults. Coming to their aid are a growing number of volunteer tutoring programs."

A total of 85 local and regional literacy programs in Illinois will receive nearly $4 million this fiscal year to support local services for adults who cannot read. This is the second year money has been appropriated by the Illinois General Assembly for distribution to a broad range of literacy programs, including adult education agencies, libraries, volunteer programs, community organizations and coalitions of such groups.

A grant of nearly $28,000 to the College of Lake County will fund the activities of a literacy coalition which includes the College of Lake County's adult education and volunteer tutoring programs. Catholic Charities, and a network of 10 Lake County public libraries.

These organizations will cooperate in delivery of services and referral of students to a variety of literacy services. Pre-school children of students attending classes will be eligible to participate in child care and pre-school programs which emphasize developmental skills.

Receiving separate funding is a project submitted by the Waukegan Public Library on behalf of the ten-member Libraries for Literacy network. A grant of more than $39,000 will allow the libraries to develop or expand collections of new-reader books and to conduct a Lake County literacy awareness campaign. The libraries (Antioch, Fox Lake, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Libertyville, Mundelein, North Chicago, Round Lake, Waukegan, and Zion) are currently providing space to volunteer tutoring programs and are referring people to appropriate programs. Libraries for Literacy works closely with the Lake County Area Planning Council for Adult Education, the College of Lake County and Literacy Volunteers of Lake County.

'Guv' Signs Bill

Sen. Adeline J. Geo-Karis' bill to form a coordinated suburban system of bicycle trails and pathways has been signed into law by Gov. James Thompson.

Sen. Geo-Karis (R-Zion) said the measure creates the Prairie Trail Authority to maintain and coordinate trails and paths in Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will Counties.

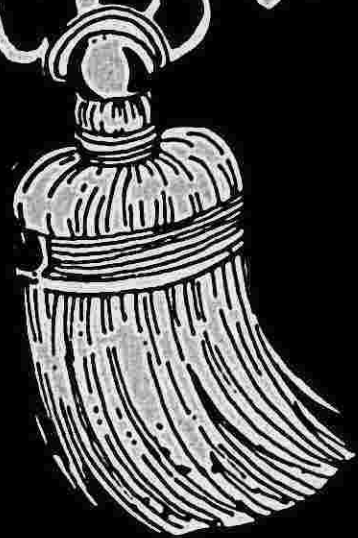

"With the growing interest in developing trails for hiking and bicycling, it makes good sense for the suburban counties to work together to provide a system that people can enjoy while protecting our environment," Geo-Karis said. "Cooperation would help trim expenses and provide uniformity."

She emphasized that participation in the Prairie Trail Authority is strictly voluntary. "Individual counties can make the decision on whether they want to tie in with the five-county plan," she pointed out.

On The Stump With The Area's Favorite Daughter

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

It was the fall of 1975. Adeline Geo-Karis was in her second term as a state representative. Two friends and I were celebrating the Bi-Centennial a year early by taking an extended tour of the eastern seaboard.

We had been on the road for over a month by the time we got to Bar Harbor, Maine. Vague longings for the familiar sights and routines of home had set in. The chill wind's hint of winter made us shudder, and the briny sea smell was depressing because...well, because it was not like home.

Walking down the main street, we turned a corner and there it was: a dark, blue Ford Galaxy plastered with stickers urging us to cast our votes for Adeline Geo-Karis. It was not all we longed for, but it was enough to give the salty ocean wind a brisk vigor that we had not noticed before.

Geo-Karis' unique blend of blunt talk and warm folksiness traveled well.

Senator Geo-Karis has punctuated her career with a series of firsts. She was the first woman in Lake County to be appointed an Asst. State's Attorney; she was the first woman in Lake County to be elected a Justice of the Peace; she was the first chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission.

It is to her credit that she handled each of her responsibilities in a manner that insured she would not be the last. Her determination has opened doors of opportunity for women throughout the county.

Now she seeks to be the first woman to be elected Comptroller of the State of Illinois. Roland Burris, her opponent, is a popular incumbent. With her record for achieving what she sets out to do, though, Burris is leaving nothing to chance; the volume and frequency of press releases coming from his office has increased noticeably.

"Labor and business must work together to get jobs, jobs, and more jobs in this state," Geo-Karis said, warming to her favorite subject.

"Every state official should be interested in the economic well-being of the state. We have the best labor force, a central location, good transportation, plenty of water and energy. We can have jobs and prosperity second to none.

"We can be the nation's top energy producer if we work at it. The answer is to develop alcohol fuels. We are the fourth largest coal producer. We should lead the way in developing methods of gassifying and liquifying coal. We should continue to develop ethanol (corn-based fuel).

"Here in Lake County we've got the North Point Marina coming in Zion and the racetrack coming to Old Mill Creek. That will mean jobs for people.

"I worked my way through college while I was a young girl. We need programs that will help the needy and forget about the greedy."

No matter what office Geo-Karis holds, all that is needed to put a gleam in her eye and a jut in her jaw is to get her talking about jobs. Helping build opportunities for labor is her labor of love.

Adeline Geo-Karis was born the youngest of ten children on a farm in Tegeas, Greece. When she was four years old, her parents made the voyage that so many before, and so many after, have made - the voyage to America and opportunity.

With an immigrant's appreciation of the opportunity to be found here, Geo-Karis worked long and hard to better herself. She joined the Navy, went to college, started a law practice, and made a name for herself in politics.

Like so many who passed through Ellis Island, her first visual memory of America is the impression the Statue of Liberty made on her. Noticing that everyone was looking up at the statue, four-year-old Adeline's girlish mind thought, "She must be a very important lady."

Geo-Karis is walking evidence of the vitality this nation gets from its endless infusion of immigrants seeking opportunity.

A resident of Zion, Geo-Karis is seldom seen these days without her "Save Our Seal" lapel pin, a reference to the effort of an out-of-town atheist to get the village to change its seal, which contains religious symbols and references.

"I've never been a cry-baby; I am a positive person who is willing to work hard. I am grateful to God and this country for the opportunities they have given me," she said. "The opportunities are there for those who are willing to work for them."

"Throughout my life, I have put my faith in God. I believe that I am my brother's keeper.

"The Navy taught me self-reliance, independence, and how to work collectively with people. If my country called me to serve again, I'd just need enough time to get my uniform altered."

The only woman in her graduating class at DePaul Law School, Geo-Karis said that her sex was no obstacle to moving up the ranks in the Navy. Joining a lawfirm was another matter, though.

"I tried to get into three lawfirms in Lake County after I left the service," she said. "They all came up with reasons why they wouldn't hire me, but the fact was they just did not take women in those days. So I opened up my own office on Sheridan Rd. north of Wadsworth. Keep in mind that lawyers did not have the benefit of advertising in those days.

"Through hard work, I did well for the clients I got and word of mouth started to spread. My practice grew and became a success.

"I never forgot the barriers that women faced, though, and I have supported the Equal Rights Amendment.

"I could not have gone into politics without the law practice. My clients and friends urged me to run for office. The late Jane Paxton, of Zion, had worked for several governors and she really encouraged me to run for office.

"I need to get a new associate attorney in my office now," Geo-Karis said, "but I have to make sure to get one who will merit the confidence of my clients and constituents."

"I want to find out where the sweetheart contracts are and get rid of them," Geo-Karis said. "The state has staff lawyers in every department and yet is constantly hiring outside lawfirms. Either hire competent staff attorneys or get rid of all of them and contract with several consulting lawfirms to consistently represent the state."

She does not hesitate to say what is wrong with the comptroller's office and how she intends to fix it.

"We lose millions of dollars every year in state drafts that are fraudulently cashed. I'd put together a blue-ribbon committee of retired lawyers, FBI people, and auditors to come up with a solution to that problem.

"There are currently three agencies that are responsible for forecasting state revenues. We need to take strong steps to guarantee that each year we have revenue projections on which all can agree. All responsible agencies should cooperate to put together one forecast that is accurate. Revenue estimates are too important to be left to partisan politics.

"We need tighter screening of all the contractual services in the state to cut out the sweetheart deals," she said.

Right or wrong, Geo-Karis leaves no question where she stands on the issues. She's not a fence-straddler.

When she entered the Navy as an apprentice seaman in 1942, Geo-Karis told her mother that she was getting "a government job." She had earlier been rejected by the army because of her lack of citizenship papers.

She was not to remain an apprentice seaman for long, quickly being sent to Mt. Holyoke College in Maryland for officer's training.

After a stint teaching naval law, she became a legal and discipline officer at Great Lakes Training Center. She ended her service as Lt. Cmdr. Geo-Karis, 47 months and 11 days after her entry.

During her days as a legal officer, she doled out punishments to wayward sailors and, in 1946, helped sailors who were about to be discharged with their legal problems.

Geo-Karis said that it was while in the Navy that she gained a healthy appetite. It has served her well at innumerable parades, picnics, and festivals.

Judy Koehler, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, was speaking at the Lake County Republican Federation's annual dinner at the Holiday Inn of Mundelein. She began her speech by accusing her opponent, incumbent Alan Dixon, of supporting the LaRouchies because he had stayed on the Democratic ticket with them. She condemned him for it. She ended her speech by predicting that Dixon would ultimately leave the ticket, thus deserting his own party. She said it would be a cowardly thing to do.

The partisan crowd rewarded this convoluted bit of logic with polite, though subdued, applause.

Then Adeline Geo-Karis stepped to the microphone and, in her booming voice, promised that if she was elected comptroller there would never be any deficit spending in this state "because when it comes to me, if there is no money there, I won't sign the checks."

The audience roared its approval. After the speech was finished, several of the party faithful were heard to wish out loud that "Geo" had been their candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Park Districts Offer Many Chances To Learn

by STEVE PETERSON

When one thinks of the local park district, swimming lessons may automatically come to mind.

But it is becoming increasingly clear that the park district is a place to learn a wide variety of useful talents.

While most park districts take a something-for-everyone approach, others strive for a few well-run programs. Either way, there's plenty to be learned out there at the parks.

"We offer 120 programs at one time or another throughout the year," Linda Willberger, superintendent of recreation for Round Lake Area Park Dist., said.

Willberger said at Round Lake, "we offer something for everyone. Our Moms and Tots program starts at six months and we have a 93-year-old in our senior program."

Most Lake County park districts are staffed with a handful of full-timers and rely on volunteers and instructors to make sure the classes are executed well.

"We could not run the programs without the volunteers," Willberger said.

Grayslake Community Park Dist. Director Dick Broadhurst said the reasons vary for taking a park district course. Some wish to brush up on present skills while others are jumping into something new.

"It varies depending on the difficulty of the course. Older people may take something like quilting while younger people take our dancing classes," Broadhurst said.

Broadhurst, who used to work at Wildwood Park Dist. before taking over the Grayslake job, said his park district strives for a few programs well-run.

"We strive for quality rather than quantity. We like to offer a few really solid programs and make sure we have qualified instructors," Broadhurst said.

Most park districts operate with a director and a handful of part-time personnel. Revenues come from a combination of taxes and fees charged for residents and non-residents.

Nancy Hohns, superintendent of reaction for Mundelein Recreation Dist., said the Mundelein park district offers a variety of programs including athletics, arts and crafts, and various workshops.

Hohns, who has been at Mundelein for five years, said she has seen an increase in popularity for the district's pre-school program, among others.

A key to success, Hohns said, is getting youngsters early and keeping them coming back for more.

Most park districts are staffed with a handful of full-timers and instructors who make sure classes run smoothly. Revenue is gained through some taxes and fees charged to residents and non-residents.

A new facility at Round Lake on Hart Rd. will give the park district an opportunity to expand its programs to gymnastics and programs for the handicapped.

"The biggest problem right now is lack of space. The building on Hart Rd. will give us four times more space," Willberger said.

10 reasons why you should maintain and increase your newspaper advertising when business is slow.

1. Whether business is good or slow, you have to get your share of whatever business is around. Cutting back your advertising puts you at a disadvantage at the very moment when you need an edge. Increasing your advertising gives you the edge.

2. In times of uncertainty, consumers are careful and a little reluctant to spend. They want to be sure before they buy; they want information about products, services, prices and values. The best source is newspaper advertising. Yours—or somebody else's.

3. Maybe you figure other retailers in your line are going to cut back their advertising, so it's safe for you, too. Right? Wrong. You're in competition for the customer's dollar with very other retailer in town, no matter what he or she sells. People have only so many dollars to spend and if they don't spend them for what you sell they'll spend them for something else.

4. There are more people working now than ever before. More women working, too, adding to the family income. People still need and want goods and services and will spend for them. There is plenty of business out there. Your competitors will be bidding for their share—and yours.

5. You can't do much about most factors in the marketplace: rent, labor cost, price or merchandise, what the competition will do. But one thing you do control is your own promotion. Remember that newspaper advertising is not just a cost of doing business. It's a proven sales tool that returns many times your investment in store traffic and sales.

6. Remember how long it took you to get started? Once you build up a business, you can keep it going with a moderate, consistent advertising program. But if you cut your advertising and lose your hold on the public's awareness you'll find it's much harder to build it up again. It's sort of like starting all over.

7. Your advertising is part of your sales force. Newspaper ads help to pre-sell the customers and help you close the sale faster. What saves you time saves you money.

8. You say your customers know you and for a while at least they'll keep coming in even if you don't promote? That's partly true, but shortsighted. Remember, one out of five Americans moves every year. So there's a steady flow of your customers out of your market, and a corresponding influx of new folks who don't know you at all. Tell them about yourself.

9. Here's a hard fact to chew on. Over any given period, a business that advertises below the industry average has sales that are below the industry average.

10. Advertising is "news" — about products and services. Your customers look for this kind of news in the pages of Lakeland Newspapers. In plush times, retailers often experiment with other media. But when the going gets tough, they concentrate their efforts in the newspaper because it provides an immediate payoff at the cash register.

CALL YOUR LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES. WE'LL HELP YOU PLAN A PROGRAM THAT WILL PAY DIVIDENDS IN ADDITIONAL STORE TRAFFIC AND INCREASED SALES.

The following is a general description of the Redevelopment Plan and the Redevelopment Projects:

The initial phase of the Tax Increment Financing Redevelopment Plan (the "Plan") will involve the redevelopment of several parcels of property constituting approximately 167.4 acres located generally North of Rollins Road and West of Illinois Highway 83 through the construction of a retail shopping center, which redevelopment will involve, among other activities, the construction and installation of certain "public improvements," e.g., subsurface site preparation, building demolition, on and off-site water, sanitary sewer and storm sewer utilities, detention work, new street construction (Old Rollins Road), improvements on current streets and general rights-of-way improvements. The second phase of the Plan will involve the utility improvements, reconstruction of minor roads to the West of Hainesville Road and South of Rollins Road and construction of new minor streets. Such redevelopment may involve property acquisition and assembly, site clearance, and physical and public improvements. A copy of the Plan is available at the office of the Village Clerk of the Village of Round Lake Beach at 1212 North Cedar Lake Road for all interested persons.

The foregoing, and all other matters the municipality may deem appropriate, will be discussed at the September 22, 1986 public hearing.

All interested parties may file with the undersigned written objections with respect to any issues embodied in this notice and will be given an opportunity to be heard at the public hearing. The Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and each taxing district having taxable property within the proposed Redevelopment Area and other interested parties are invited to submit comments concerning the subject matter of the hearing on or prior to 12:00 A.M., September 22, 1986.

Heartland, Landfills; The Plot Thickens

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Members of the Lake County Board agree that there will be complete and full public hearings before zoning or a landfill could be approved in any possible Heartland settlement. Critics maintain that it will be too little, too late.

Heartland comprises 1,827 acres and is located directly south of Grayslake and southeast of Round Lake Park. It was annexed to Round Lake Park in 1981 with an agreement that was considered to be so bad by neighboring villages and the county that efforts were mounted to stop the development. From that effort, a lawsuit by the bordering Alter project (which the county won) was filed and a suit by the Heartland developers is pending.

Lake County Board Chairman, Jim LaBelle, said that if there were to be a settlement on the Heartland issue, it would have to go through full and complete public hearings in order to be approved. All interested parties would be able to submit testimony in favor of or opposed to the agreement, or at least those areas involving zoning and landfills.

"But there is no assurance that there is going to be any settlement," LaBelle said. "We are prepared to litigate the case."

County board members Andrea Moore and Donna-Mae Litwiler, who made and seconded the motion strengthening the security of executive sessions, agreed that they would not support any settlement that did not give ample opportunity for the affected public to have their say on a proposed settlement.

Critics point out, however, that if the county agrees to a settlement, it expressly is indicating that it will not object to the provisions of that settlement. Thus, if the county does provide for a landfill at Peterson Rd. and Rte. 83 in a proposed settlement, then the county would not object in public hearings to that landfill. Sources have confirmed that Heartland developers have said that the landfill is "not negotiable." If there is to be a settlement, they insist the landfill must be approved.

Since the area in question would exist in unincorporated Lake County, if the county does not object to the landfill, Waste Management would, in all likelihood, have smooth sailing to getting their way.

Critics note that it is a nice public position for county officials to say that they oppose in principle the idea of a landfill.

"The real question, though, is will they formally object to it," one said. "If the answer to that is no, then there will be a landfill there. I don't see how the county could object to a proposal that it has approved."

Adding fuel to the fire, ARF Landfill which is located just north of the proposed site for a landfill run by Waste Management, published notice on Aug. 20 of its intent to apply for expansion of its landfill. ARF, which currently occupies approximately 80 acres, would cover 195 acres if the expansion is granted. Owners of ARF will apply to both the county and to Round Lake Park for the expansion.

The owners of ARF

declined to comment on the request over the phone, but agreed to discuss it with this newspaper later this week for publication next.

Several observers speculated that this was a defensive move on the part of ARF.

Concern that county board members will be so tightly committed to any final agreement they reach that public hearings will merely be a formality has fueled speculation that the old citizen's committee which originally fought the project may be revived. Composed of citizens from throughout the area, the committee was crucial to educating the public about the issues involved and galvanizing public opinion against the project. Many feel that taking up the banner again is the only way to ensure that the county either comes up with an acceptable agreement or litigates the case.

Depke 'Fits The Profile' For Deputy Clerk: Litwiler

One potential deputy county clerk was confirmed and another possible deputy discounted by Donna-Mae Litwiler, Republican nominee for Lake County clerk.

There has been widespread conjecture on whom Litwiler will name as her chief deputies if elected in November.

The Ingleside resident, who is concluding a four-year term on the county board as a representative from Dist. 4, said that Shawn Depke of Warren Twp. "fits the profile" she sees for a deputy role.

"He is young, has necessary experience and is in a position to consider the type of salary the county can afford to pay," Litwiler observed.

Of Walter Griffin, long-time political activist, Litwiler had this to say:

"He has a good job with the City of Waukegan. Why would he want to take a pay cut to work for the county? No, I don't think he would be under consideration."

Both Depke, the son of Warren Twp. Sup. Robert Depke, and Griffin, have been mentioned in the press and viewed by political observers as in line for appointment as top aides in the clerk's office.

Litwiler denied in talking to a Lakeland Newspaper reporter that she has "cut a deal" on the two deputy jobs.

Asked about the circumstances surrounding her decision not to debate incumbent County Clerk Linda Hess, Litwiler declared, "She (Hess) must feel threatened."

"I didn't interpret her letter as a challenge to debate. The way I saw it was that she was inviting me to talk about the duties of the county clerk. If she doesn't know that, then I'm not about to help her."

Litwiler said she felt that she and Hess will be appearing together on a sufficient number of public platforms to afford voters an opportunity to size them up.

Asked by a reporter if she was waffling on an earlier assertion that she would debate, Litwiler snapped, "Not at all."

Litwiler said that the co-chairpersons of her campaign committee, Mary Beatty of Lake Forest and John Mullin of Barrington, have mapped a strategy that will keep her busy attending party functions, working with the GOP team and being involved in grassroots events where she can talk to voters one-on-one.

Litwiler flatly rejected a proposal that she name her deputies in advance as Sheriff

Robert Babcox did during his successful campaign four years ago.

"There's a big difference between administering the sheriff's office and the county clerk's office," Litwiler stated, to explain her refusal to make public her choices for two deputy clerk positions.

Announce Scholarships

Applications for three horticulture scholarships and three health career scholarships are now being accepted at the College of Lake County's Financial Aid Office.

The Long Grove/Kildeer Garden Club will provide two $400 scholarships for the fall semester to full-time freshman horticulture majors. These scholarships will be awarded based on student financial need. The application deadline is Sept. 22.

A $250 scholarship will be awarded by the Woodlands Garden Club of Lake Forest to a student pursuing a degree in horticulture or a related field. The student should be enrolled in at least six credit hours and must complete an application by Sept. 22.

The Illinois Health Improvement Assn. has allocated funds for two $500 scholarships to be awarded to students who are enrolled in a health career program and who intend to practice their profession in Illinois. The application deadline is Sept. 5.

A $200 scholarship for a full-time freshman nursing student is also available. The application deadline is Sept. 10.

Sponsor Seminar

Twelfth Dist. Congressman Philip M. Crane is sponsoring a "Business Development Conference" for the 12th Dist. on Thursday, Sept. 4, at the Arlington Park Hilton.

The conference will present businesses in the 12th Dist. with a unique opportunity to gain insight into three crucial business concerns: international exporting, doing business with the government and strategic business planning.

This special one-day conference will provide detailed procurement information and instruction on how businesses may increase the chances of selling their products or services to the government. Many business organizations in the 12th Dist., especially smaller firms, miss out on sales opportunities with the federal and state government because they lack prime and subcontract information.

To assist in strategic planning and forecasting, a panel of experts will offer valuable information on economic trends.

Companies with little or no export experience will be offered the opportunity to learn first hand how to expand profits by turning to exports.

New Ordinances Will Speed Service And Save Lives

The Antioch Rescue Squad and Fire Dept. have successfully gotten two ordinances passed by the First Fire Protection Dist. of Antioch Twp. and the Village of Antioch that, officials say, will improve service and save lives.

The first ordinance will require each occupied property in the village and fire district to display the address number in a location on the property so as to be clearly visible under all conditions from the street fronting the property. Passed in an effort to speed response by all emergency agencies, the ordinance further requires that numbers shall be three inches high and be of contrasting color to the background. No script numbers shall be used.

Smoke detectors, which have been proven to be a life-saving tool, are now required in all residential properties. The requirements vary for single and multi-family dwellings. Full information on the requirements can be gotten from the Fire Prevention Bureau.

Spirgel Fights Uphill Battle For Election

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

If Jane Spirgel, on the New Solidarity Party slate with Adlai Stevenson III as its candidate for Secretary of State, is fighting a quixotic battle to win election, she doesn't seem to know it.

"It's simple to vote straight Democratic," she said, "just strike one for the straight Democratic ticket; strike two for Adlai Stevenson; strike three for Jane Spirgel; and strike out Thompson and the LaRouchies."

Admitting that this election will be an uphill battle, Spirgel noted that she is no stranger to uphill battles. She is the only Democratic county board member in DuPage County and has won election to that post three consecutive times.

"If this campaign is fought on the issues, we'll win," she predicted.

Spirgel said that one of the major issues is the level of professionalism with which the Secretary of State's office is run.

"The Secretary of State's office is not a high-level policy making position; it is an administrative position," she said, "and I have some abilities in public administration."

Indeed, she does. Spirgel is the program coordinator for the Master of Arts in Public Administration program at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

She criticized incumbent Secretary of State, Jim Edgar, for poor management of personnel and for poor administration of programs that have come out of his office. She said Edgar's well-publicized suspension without pay of employees who would not wear organ donor buttons was an example of poor management.

"It was a violation of freedom of speech. He had to backtrack on it because it was such a poor decision," she said.

"The organ donor program is not being promoted well enough. In Arizona, you are asked to check yes or no (in the organ donor box) before your driver's license is processed. That simple step would immediately increase participation in the program in this state."

Spirgel believes a more effective approach for the office would be to combine education with the current punitive methods of dealing with problems. She said education against driving drunk should start in driver's education classes in high school. Although a firm believer in getting drunks off the road, Spirgel said that the program is a mess right now.

"They've got it backwards," she said. "If you are arrested for drunk driving, your license is suspended. You appeal to the court for a judicial driving permit to get to work and back. Then the Secretary of State's office reviews it and can reverse the court's decision. It should be the other way around."

"The system is duplicative and costly. Circuit Court clerks around the state are being inundated with paperwork because of the inefficiency of the system."

"Because of the reversal of the role of the Secretary of State's office and the judicial system in this program, a lot of drunk driver's could ultimately get off if there was a ruling that this is an unconstitutional way to handle the program."

Spirgel also said that the Secretary of State's office is arbitrary and insensitive in reviewing judicial driving permits. She cited the case of a woman who asked that she be allowed to drop her children off to a babysitter before and after work. The Secretary of State's office denied the request.

"How is the woman supposed to work if she can't get her children to a babysitter? This was a bad, insensitive decision," she said.

Administration is not the only area where Spirgel sees problems, though. She accused the Republican leadership of being fiscally irresponsible and wasteful.

"I am going to cut the waste, fat, and favoritism out of the budget," she said. "When Stevenson was treasurer, he cut that office's budget by 20 percent."

"Governor Thompson is irresponsible. He has made a foolhardy over-estimation of state revenues. The obligations he has made to Chicago will be paid for largely out of the suburban budget."

Spirgel said the state could save a lot of money by making more effective use of driver's license facilities. Voter's registration could be taken at the facilities and state publications, income tax forms, and senior citizens' circuit breaker forms could be made available at the facilities.

Rather than a disaster, Spirgel thinks that Adlai Stevenson's response to the problems in this campaign has demonstrated his courage, resiliency, and his grace under pressure to voters. She thinks they can win because of the Illinois tradition of split-ticket voting.

Spirgel believes that her 12 years in local government will give her a bottom up approach to the Secretary of State's office.

"At the local level," she said, "you understand that the purpose of elected officials is to serve people."

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) It's "shearing" time for all you Lambs: Cut off false friends who never had your interests at heart. Cut back on expenses too.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Situations that might deter less secure folks never now determined bovine. Your stand gains you respect and adds to your inner strength.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A recent decision to expand your activities bumps into a temporary obstacle. Recheck your directions, then start operations up again.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) A changing scene indicates a need for changing methods. Make overtures to new arrivals. Put them at ease.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) An organizational crisis looms. Rally supporters for the confrontations being planned by someone who wants to gain ground by grinding your ideas underfoot.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The domestic area dominates. A family member may require more of your time. Help prepare anxious youngsters for the opening of school.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Shop now for the necessities required by family members going off to school or to new jobs. Reassess your own goals as changes develop at work.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Careful. You may be about to set out on a venture without knowing where the hidden risks lie. Ask more questions; you've been too trusting.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Cheer up. That person who says your words will come back to haunt you hasn't a ghost of a chance to change anyone's mind.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Aboy. Get set to change course as new facts emerge and hidden risks become visible. Navigate carefully to avoid mishaps.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A new venture may seem too risky for others to support. But if you believe in it, go ahead with it. Rely on your gift for seeing what others can't.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) A personal triumph follows a period of intense emotional experiences. Your courage is admired by many, including that very special someone.

Church To Offer Film Series

shown Sept. 14 through Oct. 12. Citing examples, Dobson portrays the pressures parents are susceptible to. He says that society's slide toward humanism and what he calls the undermining influences of radio, television, films, and the press can only be counterbalanced by a loving home where Christian values are instilled from an early age. The film series was released by Word Publishing and Focus on the Family, Inc. Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church will provide babysitters. For further information, call (312) 395-1660.

Crime Stoppers One Of Best

Lake County Crime Stoppers, Inc. is rated as one of this nation's top 10 most productive programs with a felony conviction rate over 95 percent. Lake County Sheriff Robert H. Babcox has announced.

Babcox credits cooperation between citizens and Crime Stoppers with its success.

Sheriff Babcox released figures today which indicate the following: Stolen property recovered -1 million, 480 dollars (1,000,480) Drugs confiscated (street value) $1,261,644 Total felony arrests- 980 Total felony cases cleared by arrest-1,387 Total felony prosecutions-420 Total felony convictions-400 Reward money given out to informants-$81,450.

This past year the cities of Waukegan, North Chicago and Zion joined with Lake County to form Lake County Crime Stoppers, Inc., which formed in 1983. Babcox was instrumental in organizing the unit in effort to further unite citizens and law enforcement.

Sheriff Babcox stated, "Crime Stoppers wants your information, not your name, and remember, the program offers cash awards up to $1,000 to anonymous callers who offer information leading to the arrest and indictment of felony offenders."

Sheriff Babcox summed up by saying, "After nearly four years as Sheriff of Lake County, I am still convinced that the single greatest deterrent to crime is public awareness. More than 90 percent of crime control is in prevention, and this is the result of (1) efficient police patrol and (2) cooperation from citizens by monitoring, observing and notifying their local law enforcement agency of suspicious activities."
